THE ELECTION IN MAINE.

Republicans well Pleased with a 17,000 Majority.

CLAIMS ABOUT THE BIG VICTORY

[illegible] Newspapers Profess to Find Some Consolation—Political News and Gossip from Various Points.

[illegible] Me., Sep. 9.—Last night the republican [illegible] a great [illegible] the results [illegible] were received at Memorial [illegible] made by [illegible] and visitors [illegible] formed on Water street and marched to [illegible] of Blaine, bearing all along the [illegible] arriving in front of [illegible] and a great crowd shouted [illegible] Blaine advanced to the entrance [illegible] a storm of cheers, and addressed the multitude as follows:

[illegible] and Old Friends: The republicans [illegible] may well congratulate themselves on the [illegible] victory which they have won. [illegible] this evening we were overwhelmed and [illegible] by the loss of the state. We have won [illegible] unparalleled triumph, which is [illegible] of both branches of the legislature [illegible] of all representatives to congress [illegible] in every county in the state [illegible] a popular majority for governor [illegible] votes. The cause of this demo [illegible] gentleman, is known [illegible] canvass has been conducted [illegible] great issue. Our papers have [illegible] constantly before the people. Every [illegible] from every platform has enumerated de[illegible] enforced it. It is the issue of protection [illegible] labor. The tariff has been almost the [illegible] discussed in our canvass, and the p[illegible] responded nobly. They understand the [illegible] They know the details of the Morrison bill and they read therein the precise [illegible] would follow if our opponents should [illegible] control of the national government. They [illegible] the Morrison bill enacted into a law [illegible] cripple, if not utterly destroy [illegible] industrial interests of Maine [illegible] the wages of every laboring man and [illegible] enterprise in the state. [illegible] people of Maine have protested against [illegible] so destructive a measure and have set [illegible] disapprobation upon the democratic party [illegible] supports it. Many democrats of Maine [illegible] before wavered in their allegiance [illegible] arranged themselves to-day on the side of [illegible] American industry by voting the full [illegible] ticket. Their leaders could not hold [illegible] during the is powerless against the [illegible]

LIQUOR QUESTION A STATE AFFAIR.

[illegible] a temperance amendment to the con[illegible] has been very properly and very rigidly [illegible] from the political contest of the state [illegible] democrats voted for it and some repub[illegible] against it. The republican party by the [illegible] temperance [illegible] took no action on [illegible] amendment. For myself I feel [illegible] on the question. I took this posi[illegible] I am chosen by the republican party as [illegible] of national issues and by no act of [illegible] any question be obtruded into the na[illegible] which belongs properly to the do[illegible] politics. [illegible] with great pleasure your congratulations [illegible] city and surrounding towns. I have [illegible] I do not disguise from you that I am [illegible] gratified with the result. I am desirous [illegible] opinion of all men and I am sure I [illegible] all others the good opinion of these [illegible] people among whom I have passed nearly [illegible] of my adult life, who know me [illegible] faith and manhood as a fellow citizen [illegible] friend. I return my thanks for y[illegible] heartiest thanks for your great work of [illegible]

A BRILLIANT VICTORY.

[illegible] Sept. 9.—[Special.]—The Tribune's [illegible] says: Six towns in this county [illegible] show a gain of 1100 votes on [illegible] election. Pierson, which has not before [illegible] republican majority in ten years, to-day [illegible] majority for Robie. Portland, which is [illegible] congressional district, where the democrats [illegible] their heaviest work, gives a republican [illegible] '80, a gain of nearly 400. The [illegible] heard from that do not show extra [illegible] are Lewiston and Waterville [illegible] there is a large French Canadian [illegible] and where the mills have been shut [illegible] splendid result in Blaine's own county [illegible] in the history of the party. It is the [illegible] responsible to democratic slanders. [illegible] home of Redmond, democratic candidate [illegible] gave a republican majority of [illegible]

[illegible] figures 16,000 plurality for Robie, the [illegible] the World and Sun the same and the [illegible] to 15,000.

A DISPATCH TO LOGAN.

[illegible] Sept. 9.—The following dispatch was [illegible] Logan to-day: "The result of the [illegible] may thus be summarized: The republicans [illegible] every county in the state with the pos[illegible] of Knox, which is very close. They [illegible] twenty-nine senators and the demo[illegible] and have chosen four-fifths of the [illegible] They have elected four republicans in [illegible] large majorities and have given Gov. [illegible] popular majority of 17,000. The re[illegible] will reach very nearly 80,000—4000 to [illegible] ever cast before. Our majority is [illegible] have had since the presidential elec[illegible] and far exceeds our most sanguine [illegible]

WALKER BLAINE."

COMPARISON OF VOTES.

[illegible] Sept. 9.—Two hundred and sixty-seven [illegible] Robie 61,318, Redman 45,064, scattering [illegible] 16,245. The same towns in 1880 gave [illegible] Plaisted 47,410, scattering 467, plurality [illegible] heard from gave Robie 16,286 and [illegible] Robie will have over [illegible] 000 plural[illegible] vote of about 140,000. The vote of 1880 [illegible] plurality of 139, so the gain this year [illegible] over the gubernatorial vote of 1880 [illegible] vote of that year gained [illegible] 000 on [illegible] vote and probably will gain in [illegible] considerably on this. All four congress[illegible] and the legislature will be over[illegible] republican.

A COMPLETE VICTORY.

[illegible] Sept. 9.—The latest from the house of [illegible] show that 107 republicans are elected [illegible] a net republican gain of 7.

[illegible] Sept. 9.—Full returns from the First [illegible] district give Reed a plurality of [illegible] plurality was 717.

COMPLEXION OF THE LEGISLATURE.

[illegible] Sept. 9.—Late returns show that the [illegible] and 31 republicans and no democrats [illegible] far as heard from will have [illegible] [illegible] democrats.

PRESS COMMENT.

[illegible] Papers Try to Find Consolation in the Result.

[illegible] Sept. 9.—Special.—The World says: [illegible] with an alliance between [illegible] republicans and the prohibitionists, the [illegible] Blaine's candidate for governor should [illegible] at least 20,100. The failure to reach these [illegible] exposure of the weakness of Blaine, and [illegible] judgment that his magnetic influence will [illegible] the close states of the west.

[illegible] says: Blaine appears to be about [illegible] popular in Maine than the late [illegible] Garfield, and 4000 votes less popular than [illegible] Hayes. This is not a very hopeful [illegible] the republican candidate in his own [illegible] not show an overwhelming enthu[illegible] favorite. On the contrary it shows [illegible] democratic national committee had [illegible] this election instead of letting it [illegible] they might have done so with an ex[illegible] of success.

[illegible] says: Blaine managers will claim a [illegible] They ought to be allowed all the [illegible] they can gather from the effect of their [illegible] practically unopposed efforts in the state [illegible] they have taken their candidate. They [illegible] their personal consolation, but that is all [illegible] will do them. As compared with the [illegible] vote of 1880 the vast one held under [illegible] conditions they ought to have polled more [illegible] majority. It will be seen that [illegible] straining, with the advan[illegible] Blaine's opposers to state pride [illegible] field substantially abandoned to [illegible] republicans have barely managed to hold [illegible] and that they have not succeeded in get[illegible] their share of the increased vote which [illegible] the fact that where Blaine should have [illegible] overwhelmingly strong he is no stronger than [illegible] eight years ago. The real struggle is yet [illegible] It will not be materially affected by the [illegible] which the managers had ar[illegible] It will be determined by forces [illegible] than those enlisted there and those [illegible] working steadily and strongly against [illegible]

ANTI-CLEVELAND PAPERS.

[illegible] says: There are crumbs of comfort for [illegible] and democrats in the returns from [illegible] republicans may rejoice that the ma[illegible] as large as the most sanguine had [illegible] and the democrats may find [illegible] in the fact that their [illegible] somewhat in the manufacturing cities.

[illegible] says: The republicans hoped to gain [illegible] over the result in September [illegible] returns thus far indi[illegible] have gained at least 12,000 and it is [illegible] returns will raise the majority to 15,000 [illegible] vote of 1876 [illegible] years ago this would [illegible] more than [illegible] of the entire vote [illegible] a like gain [illegible] would give [illegible] every doubt[illegible] majority too large to overcome by fraud.

THE PHILADELPHIA PAPERS.

[illegible] Sept. 9.—[Special.]—The [illegible] says: The election of a republican [illegible] Maine by a majority of 16,000 throws [illegible] Blaine [illegible] and gives him a roaring [illegible] October race and November sweep [illegible] thoughtful citizens who read inde[illegible] newspapers, will well understand how the [illegible] republican majority was made, but for the [illegible] the campaign there is only one thing [illegible] successful, and that is success. Blaine had [illegible] success in Maine, regard less of conse[illegible] had to be had, and [illegible] it.

[illegible] says: The victory passes by thousands [illegible]

[illegible] the 3 more rals. After [illegible] the ridiculous fan cards [illegible] of Blaine at a single blow have carried Maine [illegible] republican state. Maine [illegible] settles croakers over Blaine's [illegible] settles democratic predictions [illegible] of doubtful states by parting [illegible] the narrowest limit of eight years past.

AT THE NEBRASKA FAIR.

OMAHA, Sept. [illegible].—Butler in a speech before the Nebraska state fair said all the farms in Cass [illegible] Iowa were mortgaged for more than they [illegible] If the east [illegible] and west [illegible] would [illegible] eighteen cents, [illegible] seventy-five cents east. The cost of trans[illegible] was caused by the enormous interest paid [illegible] watered stocks of fast freight lines [illegible] skinned the people. They were [illegible] gave away [illegible] of land [illegible] and allowed other mortgages. Trans[illegible] should be made cheap. The managers get [illegible] with the [illegible] of their capital and the people [illegible] they cannot live on. Corn is [illegible] in Chicago for the benefit of [illegible] A man can steal $10,000 worth [illegible] of pork in Chicago and go unpunished [illegible] one who stole enough to support [illegible] sent to jail. He alluded to the rise of the re[illegible] publican party and the treason of southern demo[illegible] He urged his hearers to stand together and [illegible] for liberty. He enumerated all the various [illegible] monopolies. If Jackson were alive to-day he would [illegible] for [illegible], for he would say: "By the eternal, [illegible] wrongs must be righted," and they would be [illegible] righted now, by sending the proper [illegible] to congress. The Pittsburg riot will be re[illegible] peated if the people do not take warning. The cry [illegible] should be changed to an under[illegible] were starving while Nebraska [illegible] was overflowing with grain. The rail[illegible] roads will not haul grain and manufactures to be [illegible] brought together so as to live. The laborers and [illegible] farmers have the power to select a president, and [illegible] old parties should be abandoned. Vote together [illegible] and in a few years they would liberate themselves [illegible] as the abolitionists liberated the slaves.

BUTLER AT LINCOLN.

LINCOLN, Neb., Sept. 9.—The anti-monopoly and [illegible] state convention met here to-day. After [illegible] meeting and passing resolutions favoring fusion [illegible] with the greenbackers and democrats, the [illegible] convention adjourned and went in session [illegible] with the anti-monopolists. The convention ad[illegible] journed to recess and listen to General B. F. Butler [illegible] o'clock. It is still wrangling [illegible] over preliminaries. Butler spoke before the conven[illegible] and to the people in the open air after supper. [illegible] He advocated minority representation, advised fu[illegible] sion with the democrats and declared he wanted [illegible] electoral votes only to hold the balance of power [illegible] and make the other parties come to the people's [illegible] party. He said the anti-monopolists need not [illegible] fear fusion here as Cleveland would win if [illegible] he carried New York and lose if he didn't. He said [illegible] he (Butler) could not be elected as Cleveland would [illegible] have [illegible] in the south which Butler would have [illegible] with a free ballot and fair count. He was only an[illegible] [illegible] for the people's party to make the success of a [illegible] new party.

After supper he made an anti-monopoly speech in [illegible] the open air and attributed want and poverty in the [illegible] midst of plenty to the difficulty of the exchange of [illegible] commodities resulting from exorbitant railroad [illegible] charges and bull and bear speculation. He re[illegible] hearsed what he demanded at Chicago and ex[illegible] plained his idea of the tariff. He spoke against the [illegible] importation of contract labor, and eulogized Van [illegible] Wyck as the friend of the people against monopo[illegible] lies. He goes to Topeka to-morrow.

POLITICAL POINTS.

MISSOURI REPUBLICAN CONVENTION.

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 9.—The republican state [illegible] convention met here to-day. After the appointment [illegible] of the usual committees recess was taken.

The convention reassembled at 2:30 and General [illegible] D. S. [illegible] was made permanent chairman. A reso[illegible] lution denouncing the nomination of Marmaduke as [illegible] a premium on rebellion was referred, also one de[illegible] claring [illegible] the assembly to indulge in any [illegible] liquor legislation of any kind whatever [illegible] and the license law is fully tested. The [illegible] platform endorses the administration of President [illegible] Arthur and the nominations of Blaine and Logan [illegible] and endorses the platform of the national republican [illegible] convention. Nicholas Ford was nominated for gov[illegible] ernor. H. M. [illegible] lieutenant governor, Major [illegible] Thompson treasurer, Jacob Bartes auditor, David [illegible] Wagner supreme court. Adjourned.

It is understood the three offices not provided for [illegible] on the ticket will be filled with greenback [illegible]

THE BLAINE LIBEL SUIT.

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 9.—In the Blaine Sentinel suit [illegible] the attorneys to-day served notice of plaintiff's attor[illegible] neys that they would begin taking depositions in [illegible] Kentucky on the 22d. The depositions of the fol[illegible] lowing [illegible] will be taken: At Millers[illegible] burg, [illegible] Miller, Daniel A. Smith and wife, Joseph [illegible] N. Miller, R. A. Miller, Wm. Smarr, Webb Ross and C. W. [illegible] West; at Eminence, B. Todd.

AT REPUBLICAN HEADQUARTERS.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—[Special.]—There was a gen[illegible] eral air of jubilation manifest at the republican [illegible] state committee rooms last evening. People kept [illegible] dropping in eager for news, and read with solid [illegible] satisfaction the telegrams brought in every few min[illegible] utes. Such expressions as "That's the kind of fig[illegible] ures," "Good for Maine," "Just what I expected," [illegible] and "That settles the story," showed the feeling of [illegible] the company.

BLAINE'S MOVEMENTS.

AUGUSTA, Sept. 9.—Blaine remained at home to[illegible] day. Among his callers were Gov. Robie, ex-Secre[illegible] tary of the Navy Nathan Goff, Jr. (West Virginia), [illegible] John S. Collier, president of the Maine senate, and [illegible] William H. Gunnerson of the postoffice department. [illegible] Blaine received a large number of dispatches con[illegible] gratulating him on the result of the Maine election.

HENDRICKS' MOVEMENTS.

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. [illegible].—Governor Hendricks and [illegible] wife leave this evening for Toledo, where the gov[illegible] ernor delivers an address to-morrow at the state fair. [illegible] Before returning he will make several speeches [illegible] [illegible] and elsewhere.

Personal.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. [illegible].—[Special.]—Mr. K[illegible] of Seattle is in the city and will remain ten days. [illegible] Mrs. [illegible] Earliman of Seattle is at the Lick with her [illegible] family. She will spend the coming fall and winter [illegible] in this state. Her son Harold will soon be put to [illegible] school at Oakland.

A [illegible] of Astoria will be married in about [illegible] ten days to Miss Rosa Marks. They will spend two [illegible] weeks at Aptos before going north.

Will Steel has gone into the country, and will start [illegible] home overland late in the week.

Miss Rosa Mayer expects to go to Portland in about [illegible] three weeks. Her marriage with Mr. Moses Blum [illegible] will not take place till winter.

Admission Day.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 9.—Admission day was ob[illegible] served throughout California to-day as a legal holi[illegible] day in accordance with the governor's proclama[illegible] tion. The stock board, the produce exchange and [illegible] most of the business firms in this city, closed their [illegible] doors. The society of California pioneers celebrated [illegible] the laying of the corner stone of their new building [illegible] under the auspices of the grand lodge of California [illegible] Masons.

Heavy rains continue to interfere with the work[illegible] ing of wires to the south, and but a limited news [illegible] report can be received.

GENEVA, N. Y., Sept. 9.—The town is rapidly fill[illegible] ing with visitors. The president and cabinet ar[illegible] rived. The president was conveyed to the [illegible] of ex-Senator Hammond, whose guest he [illegible] while in Geneva. Governor Cleveland and his party [illegible] arrived [illegible] and were driven direct to the [illegible] residence of William L. King in the immediate [illegible] vicinity. Secretary Teller, Postmaster General [illegible] Gresham and Judges Miller and Andrews arrived [illegible] this morning. Secretary Chandler is with the pres[illegible] idential party. It is thought every member of the [illegible] cabinet will be here. Trains from the east, west [illegible] and north have yet to arrive before the funeral. The [illegible] weather [illegible] excessively warm and the crowd [illegible] there is suffering [illegible] discomfort.

At 1 the last train arrived and the crowd surged [illegible] toward the Folger residence. The villages and [illegible] farming country about seem to have turned out their [illegible] population en masse to pay tribute of respect [illegible] to the illustrious deceased. At least 2000 [illegible] people were in the city. The body of [illegible] Judge Folger lay northeast from his [illegible] late residence on Main street, in a massive casket [illegible] covered with plain black velvet with silver mount[illegible] ings. It bore the simple inscription: "Charles James [illegible] Folger, born April 16, 1818, died September 4, 1884." [illegible] The president entered the room, accompanied by [illegible] Secretaries Frelinghuysen, Teller and Chandler, [illegible] and Postmaster General Gresham, when the religi[illegible] ous services took place. The obsequies were very im[illegible] pressive.

Improved Order of Red Men.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 9.—The grand council of [illegible] the United States Improved Order of Red Men [illegible] opened this morning in the state capitol. [illegible] The re[illegible] port of the Great Incohonee reveals the fact that there [illegible] has been an unexampled growth in the order during [illegible] the past year, the increase being [illegible] and the [illegible] entire membership [illegible] being [illegible] in [illegible] excess of the largest number ever obtained. Interested in the Strike.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 9.—A Monongahela City special [illegible] says: The miners state that officials have interested [illegible] themselves in the strike and at a secret meeting [illegible] held after the adjournment of the convention it [illegible] was decided to call out all bituminous miners of [illegible] western Pennsylvania. This includes the river and [illegible] railroad miners and those working in the Clearfield [illegible] region. In all there are about 16,000 men. [illegible] [illegible] in ordering a general strike is to curtail the pro[illegible] duction with the expectation that it will improve [illegible] prices.

A Heated Term.

CHICAGO, Sept. [illegible].—The past ten days in this city [illegible] have constituted a heated term in the city [illegible] unprecedented in the history of the city. The ther[illegible] mometer has rarely dropped under 75 degrees and [illegible] has risen to 96 degrees. The peculiarity of the sea[illegible] son has been the fact that the nights have afforded [illegible] no relief, the sultriness continuing very evenly [illegible] through the full twenty-four hours. At 7 [illegible] this morning the thermometer registered [illegible] de[illegible] grees.

The Cattle Disease Scare.

CHICAGO, Sept. 9.—The Chicago live stock exchange [illegible] decided yesterday to purchase ten head of healthy [illegible] cattle to be presented to the live stock commissioner [illegible] for the purpose of being placed in herds of cattle [illegible] claimed to be afflicted with pleuro-pneumonia [illegible] such time as will prove that the suspected disease [illegible] does not exist.

Exports from New York.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—Exports from the port of [illegible] New York for the week ended to-day were $[illegible] [illegible] against $7,945,[illegible] the previous week and $[illegible] [illegible] for the week which ended Sept. 11, 1883. Total ex[illegible] ports since Jan. 1 were $[illegible] against $[illegible] [illegible] for the same time last year.

The Poles Must Go.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. [illegible].—All the telegraph, tele[illegible] phone and electric companies to-day were notified [illegible] that all poles must be removed before January 1.

Prostrated from Heat.

NEW YORK, Sept. [illegible].—Seventeen persons were [illegible] prostrated from heat to-day and three [illegible] died.

The Scientists at Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 9.—Professor Newton [illegible] was elected president of the scientists to-day.

CRIMINAL CALENDAR.

THE NEW BRUNSWICK BANK [illegible]

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Sept. 9.—In an interview [illegible] with Davis, the clerk who was reported dead, he [illegible] said trembling violently: "My whole life was [illegible] bound up in Hill and when he went off I thought I [illegible] might as well follow him."

"Did you take strychnine?"

"The idea."

"Was Hill in your confidence?"

"No, no (hesitatingly)."

"What do you know about this trouble?"

This question startled Davis and he fell to the [illegible] pavement in a faint. He was picked up and carried [illegible] home by the police.

The coroner's jury in the case of Mahlon Runyon's [illegible] death returned a verdict of willful suicide.

Acting Cashier Campbell was seen. "What do you [illegible] know?" the reporter asked.

"I am amazed and horrified over the affair. My [illegible] heart's blood might have been spilt for Charley. But [illegible] when I see what is about to occur—the fall of the [illegible] whole institution—my heart bleeds. But," he added, [illegible] "I am innocent. Hill was never my confidante, [illegible] though I undertook some of his greatest missions as [illegible] messenger from Helgarten & Co. to New York. I [illegible] have taken money for investment to them. I have [illegible] had fears of the present result for six months but [illegible] kept my mouth closed. I feared explosion by the [illegible] directors."

Joseph Fisher, Sr., custodian of the Voorhees [illegible] estate, refused to divulge why he had not signed the [illegible] release preferred by Hill when a sale of bonds [illegible] might have been effected. "No sir," he said, "I am [illegible] not such a rascal as to take landed estate from the [illegible] Voorhees boys, and you will find me always on the [illegible] side of the weak."

POLICE OFFICER SHOT DEAD.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—Police officer Fowler was [illegible] shot and killed this morning while in the performance [illegible] of his duty by a negro desperado. John [illegible] Langster was with the officer in charge of the chain [illegible] gang, and at work cleaning alleys. Watching an op[illegible] portunity he slipped away from his fellow crimi[illegible] nals and secreted himself in an outhouse, [illegible] where Fowler found him and called [illegible] on him to surrender. Langster defied [illegible] arrest but the officer seized him, when a negro [illegible] named Wilson rushed up and a struggle began for [illegible] the possession of Fowler's pistol. Langster finally [illegible] secured the weapon and deliberately shot the officer [illegible] through the heart. All this occurred in the presence [illegible] of bystanders to whom Fowler appealed in vain for [illegible] aid. Langster has been arrested.

MORMONS ORDERED TO LEAVE.

NASHVILLE, Sept. 9.—The citizens of Lewis county [illegible] have become greatly incensed at the Mormons there. [illegible] The following notice has been posted at the place [illegible] where the Mormon elders were recently murdered: [illegible] "Mormons, members of the Latter Day Saints, are [illegible] notified to leave this county at [illegible] thirty days are [illegible] given you all to go. An independent and outraged [illegible] people have said it, and go you shall. If any are [illegible] found in this county after thirty days you will go [illegible] like the others. Go peaceably if you will, but go [illegible] you must."

TRAMPS CAPTURE A TRAIN.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 9.—When the evening [illegible] train on the Derby railroad stopped at Westhaven [illegible] last night three men were found riding on the truck. [illegible] The train hands dislodged them and a fight ensued. [illegible] The tramps drew revolvers and ran the train to [illegible] Derby, where two were arrested. One tramp [illegible] escaped. Some passengers narrowly escaped being [illegible] struck by flying bullets. The police regard the men [illegible] as professional burglars, and suppose their inten[illegible] tion was to rob the passengers.

SHOT BY A MISTAKE.

COLUMBUS, Sept. 9.—William Collison, a telegraph [illegible] operator on duty at Snake Hollow in the Hocking [illegible] valley, where the property of operators is being [illegible] guarded by troops, was shot by the guard last night, [illegible] being mistaken for a striking miner, and was sup[illegible] posed to be in the act of setting fire to one of the [illegible] hoppers. He died instantly.

HANGED TO A TREE.

LITTLE ROCK, Sept. 9.—A Gazette (Monticello, [illegible] Ark.) special says: Sam Jacobson, colored, who [illegible] outraged and murdered Corinne Haynes, a white [illegible] girl aged 11 seven years ago, and recently captured, [illegible] was taken from Hamburg jail Saturday night, by a [illegible] mob of masked men and hung to a tree.

MURDER SUSPECTED.

AUGUSTA, Me., Sept. 9.—The town of Albion in [illegible] Kennebec county, has been thrown into great ex[illegible] citement by the finding on Friday of the dead body of [illegible] Mrs. Newell Fuch at her home in that town. Mur[illegible] der is suspected.

FAILURES.

ANOTHER BANK SUSPENDED.

[illegible] Sept. 9.—The Lincoln savings bank at [illegible] [illegible] closed its doors this morn[illegible] [illegible] posted on the door signed by President [illegible] [illegible] that the stringency of the money [illegible] [illegible] to collect had forced suspen[illegible] [illegible] it is said will be paid in full and [illegible] perhaps get 60 per cent or more [illegible] [illegible] Deposits are [illegible] [illegible] It is reported [illegible] the stockholders has been called [illegible] [illegible] when more will be known. In [illegible] [illegible] it is impossible to get [illegible] the bank has considerable part [illegible] invested in real estate on which cash [illegible] raised.

A SWINDLING FIRM FAILS.

LOUISVILLE, Sept. 9.—A sensation developed last [illegible] night out of the assignment of Payne, Viley & Co., [illegible] well known cotton factors and commission mer[illegible] chants of this city. The assignment was supposed [illegible] to have been caused by a shrinkage of values, but at [illegible] the meeting of creditors last night it was shown that [illegible] the firm had been engaged in swindling the banks [illegible] by hypothecating warehouse receipts when goods [illegible] were not in the house. This swindling had been [illegible] going on for two years, until the "steelage" amounts [illegible] to $144,000. Liabilities of the firm are $[illegible]; [illegible] assets, $20,000.

HORRIBLE CONFESSION.

Young Bateman Makes a Detailed Confession of His Fiendish Crime—A Fearful Deed.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Sept. 9.—Oliver H. Bateman, the [illegible] young man arrested for the crime of murder and out[illegible] rage committed on the two little McLaughlin girls [illegible] near [illegible] Springs August 21st, last night made a [illegible] confession to a reporter of the St. Joe [illegible] who [illegible] interviewed him in the Savannah jail. He related [illegible] with minuteness all the details connected with the [illegible] horrible deed, and now stands prepared to meet his [illegible] fate. The fact of the confession is unknown to the [illegible] people of Savannah at this writing, but as soon as it [illegible] is made public Bateman will probably be lynched. [illegible] In his confession as to the killing of the young Mc[illegible] Laughlin girls Bateman says he went home when [illegible] the girls went there. He saw them go into the woods [illegible] to pick [illegible] and followed them. Within fifteen [illegible] minutes afterward they were near the edge of the [illegible] [illegible] field when he came up with them. While talk[illegible] ing with them he saw Henry Knappenberger pass. [illegible] He then induced the children to go farther into the [illegible] [illegible] field and while the eldest was walking in front [illegible] of him he shot her with a 22 calibre ball and when [illegible] she turned around he shot her with a second ball [illegible] killing her instantly. Then the smallest girl [illegible] started to run, when he followed and caught [illegible] her. She begged so hard for him to let her go that [illegible] he says he came very near allowing her to do so. He [illegible] did not do so, but knowing she would tell [illegible] [illegible] caught her again, threw her down and [illegible] [illegible] whether it was fifteen or twenty minutes after [illegible] [illegible] before he shot the elder girl. [illegible] the younger girl he went back to the [illegible] girl, outraged her person, and then outraged [illegible] he [illegible] the impression it was the dead [illegible] [illegible] He states that the elder girl was a [illegible] [illegible] and that he held his hand [illegible] over the mouth of the younger to prevent her cries [illegible] being heard. He says after all these horrible acts [illegible] [illegible] as he went to the creek washed his hands, threw [illegible] the knife into the stream and went home. When [illegible] the father of the girls came to his house inquiring [illegible] for them he wanted to go and help search for them [illegible] but his relatives would not allow him as they [illegible] thought he was ill.

[illegible] he was induced to confess [illegible] [illegible] owing to the unmerciful manner in which Henry [illegible] Knappenberger had accused him of the crime.

DREADFUL TRAGEDY.

A Boy Shoots and Kills a Young Girl—The [illegible] mits Suicide.

[illegible], Sept. [illegible].—A double tragedy was [illegible] enacted on the grounds of St. Vincent's [illegible] hos[illegible] pital in this city last night resulting in the death [illegible] of a young girl and the suicide of her murderer and [illegible] the wounding of another girl, an inmate of the hos[illegible] pital. [illegible] aged 18 years, known as Bob [illegible] [illegible] inmates of the hospital, was brought here by [illegible] the sisters in charge of the institution about two [illegible] years ago from Providence, R. I., as an errand boy. [illegible] Nothing further is known of his antecedents, but it [illegible] is said he was a native of San Blas, Central America. [illegible] He [illegible] was apparently amiable and he was [illegible] fond of spending leisure time with Nellie Devlin, a [illegible] pretty girl of 14, an attendant on the sisters. Last [illegible] night as Nellie and a young German servant, Car[illegible] oline [illegible] were crossing the grounds laugh[illegible] ing and swinging a basket between them, Bob [illegible] walked up behind them, drew a large pistol and [illegible] fired, striking Caroline in the hand, inflicting a [illegible] painful wound. Firing again he struck Nellie in [illegible] the back, the ball coming out just above the left [illegible] breast, killing her instantly. He ran [illegible] and [illegible] shot himself dead.

THE MARKETS.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—Governments firm [illegible] [illegible] Rails absent [illegible] [illegible] were raided by [illegible] traders [illegible] The [illegible] market in early dealings was weak, with North[illegible] ern Pacific and Oregon Navigation [illegible] [illegible] per cent [illegible] and the latter [illegible]

The decline outside of these stocks was only [illegible] fractional. About 2 P. NEW YORK GRAIN MARKET.

NEW YORK, Sept. [illegible].—[Special.]—The [illegible] says: There was a general break in grain [illegible] yesterday and [illegible] was alike [illegible] all of the list of breadstuffs [illegible] upon heavy [illegible] actual and prospective arrivals with the [illegible] buyers even at the prevailing low [illegible] figures for which all cereal products are [illegible] At [illegible] the outlook it is one huge interrogation point. [illegible] Dealers [illegible] people are now dealing with a new set [illegible] figures. Prices never were so low under [illegible] large [illegible] There [illegible] on every hand a disposition [illegible] the [illegible] form opinions [illegible] [illegible] and [illegible] especially where undertakings [illegible] are purely of a speculative nature. RAILROAD NOTES.

[illegible] THE [illegible] DENVER AND RIO GRANDE.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—Dr. Pathhurst, representing [illegible] the English and Robert Fleming, representing Scot[illegible] land holders of Denver and Rio Grande securities, [illegible] have arrived here. Mr. Vanderbilt, who is under[illegible] stood to represent Amsterdam holders, is on his [illegible] way. When the latter arrives the committee will be [illegible] joined by representatives of American security [illegible] holders, when a trip will be made over the road, af[illegible] ter which some plan of organization will probably [illegible] be announced. The foreign committee has full [illegible] power to act.

ACCIDENTS.

RAILROAD DISASTER.

MEMPHIS, Sept. 9.—The west bound passenger [illegible] train of the Memphis and Charleston, due here last [illegible] night at 9:30 o'clock, met with an accident three [illegible] miles this side of Corinth, Miss. Brakeman Lee and [illegible] several passengers were injured. Three coaches [illegible] were thrown from the track. Additional particulars [illegible] cannot be learned at present.

WHAT SOME PAPERS SAY.

Washington C[illegible]: Hendricks defeated Cleveland [illegible] outwitted is to defeat Hendricks. That is where the [illegible] democratic shirt tail is short in this canvass.

Indianapolis Times: "I am not concerned about [illegible] the Irish," said Mr. Hendricks. It looks as if the [illegible] only thing he was concerned about was Thomas A. [illegible] Hendricks.

Buffalo Express: In all likelihood Miss Tammany [illegible] will return from her summer vacation with an en[illegible] gagement ring and a ribbon-bound lock of B. Frank[illegible] lin Butler's hair.

Burlington Hawk-eye: Hendricks, as a criminal [illegible] lawyer defending Cleveland, is a miserable failure. [illegible] He finds his own client guilty at the start and then [illegible] calls for a vindication of that guilt.

Indianapolis Times: The democratic congress of [illegible] 1884 did not readjust the tariff. It did not lessen [illegible] the revenue. It did not remit any taxes. It did not [illegible] stop the coinage of silver. It did not suppress the [illegible] trade dollar. It did not pass the bill to repeal the [illegible] counting [illegible] It did not pass a bankrupt law. It did not [illegible] suppress polygamy. It did not build a navy. It did [illegible] not arm the coast defenses. It did none of these [illegible] things and ought to have done all of them. Will [illegible] some democrat tell us what it did do.

Keep Open Your Mouth

Except to put something to eat into it is an excel[illegible] lent motto for the gossip and the sufferer from ca[illegible] tarrh. But while the gossip is practically incurable [illegible] there is no excuse for anyone's suffering longer from [illegible] catarrh. Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy is an unfailing [illegible] cure for that offensive disease. It heals the dis[illegible] eased membrane and removes the dull and depressed [illegible] sensations which always attend catarrh. A short [illegible] trial of this valuable preparation will make the [illegible] sufferer feel like a new being.

The New York World is comparing Cleveland to [illegible] Lincoln. Some years ago it compared Lincoln to a [illegible] donkey.—Philadelphia Call.

SATISFACTORY EVIDENCE.—J. W. Graham, whole[illegible] sale druggist of Austin, Tex., writes: "I have been [illegible] handling DR. WM. HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE [illegible] LUNGS for the past year, and have found it one of [illegible] the most salable medicines I have ever had in my [illegible] house for Coughs, Colds and even Consumption, [illegible] always giving entire satisfaction. Please send me [illegible] another gross."

FOREIGN DISPATCHES.

SAD STORIES OF THE CHOLERA EPIDEMIC IN FRANCE AND ITALY.

The Franco-Chinese War—Nihilists Daily Arrested at Warsaw—Sad News from Labrador—Old World Events.

[illegible], Sept. 9.—An official bulletin of the ravages [illegible] of cholera in the various provinces in Italy for the [illegible] past twenty-four hours shows 471 fresh cases and [illegible] 315 deaths. Of these numbers 53 new cases and 16 [illegible] deaths are in Naples. Twenty-four fresh cases and [illegible] all the deaths in the province of Genoa were at Spe[illegible] zia. The physicians of Spezia believe that flies [illegible] spread the cholera.

[illegible] Sept. [illegible].—A grand fete will be given in this [illegible] city on the 14th. The proceeds will go for the re[illegible] lief of the [illegible] sufferers. One death occurred to[illegible] day from cholera at Toulon, four at Laseyne, three [illegible] at Saltepuit, and one at Stanneulcons. At Stan[illegible] [illegible] twenty persons were suddenly attacked with [illegible] the cholera and two have died.

MADRID, Sept. [illegible].—No further cases of cholera are [illegible] reported at Alicante. At Leerida two deaths are re[illegible] ported to-day.

ROME, Sept. 9.—Official bulletins showing the rav[illegible] ages of cholera in various portions of Italy the past [illegible] twenty-four hours [illegible] fresh cases and [illegible] deaths. [illegible] Caserta, Bologna and Salerno were refuges from [illegible] Naples. In Naples the condition is most harrowing. [illegible] [illegible] misery and wretchedness of the most hor[illegible] rible character [illegible] on every side. King Humbert [illegible] has been profoundly affected by the sufferings he [illegible] has witnessed, and he has made the first donation to [illegible] a relief fund.

NAPLES, Sept. 9.—King Humbert, after visiting the [illegible] poorer portions of the city to-day, inspected Christal[illegible] line hospital. He declined to use disinfectants [illegible] while making the tour of the wards in the hospital. [illegible] The king was accompanied by his brother, the Duke [illegible] of Aosta, and the ministers of the interior and for[illegible] eign affairs.

The burial of the dead from cholera is found very [illegible] difficult owing to the unusually large number so [illegible] suddenly needing interment. A soldier suffering [illegible] from a violent attack of cholera was taken to the [illegible] hospital and in his delirium threw himself from a [illegible] window.

NAPLES, Sept. 9.—During the last twenty-four [illegible] hours there have been 8[illegible] fresh cases of cholera [illegible] and 3[illegible] deaths in this city. The town presents a [illegible] gloomy aspect. Images of saints, with [illegible] lighted tapers formed the head of a pro[illegible] cession of women, which marched through the [illegible] streets, and invoked the help of the Virgin. [illegible] A large crowd assembled outside the church [illegible] of Sangennoro in consequence of a report that the [illegible] Virgin Mary had descended upon the altar and be[illegible] stowed her blessings upon her people. The doors of [illegible] the church were closed and the [illegible] attempted to [illegible] break them open. Troops arriving, however, the [illegible] doors were opened and the multitude rushed in [illegible] [illegible] threw themselves and engaged in fervent pray[illegible] ers. King Humbert visited late in the day Conchia [illegible] [illegible] An immense crowd tendered the king an [illegible] ovation as he proceeded through the streets. Bon[illegible] fires were lighted throughout the city and disin[illegible] fectants were freely used.

NAPLES, Sept. 9.—There is a complete break down [illegible] here on the part of the authorities in relation to [illegible] help for cholera victims, owing to a want of medi[illegible] cal [illegible] efforts of the [illegible] are left abandoned [illegible] in the streets, and no [illegible] are or can be taken [illegible] to remove the dead.

THE WAR IN CHINA.

WAR WILL BE DECLARED.

[illegible], Sept. [illegible].—It is officially stated that war will [illegible] be declared against China. The scheme of [illegible] buying Formosa has been abandoned and a fresh [illegible] [illegible] of a more important nature than previous [illegible] ones was prepared when the question was discussed [illegible] at Saturday's cabinet council.

THE POWERS PROTEST.

LONDON, Sept. [illegible].—The Chinese wish to bar the en[illegible] trance to the river at Shanghai. Consuls of the [illegible] different powers are earnestly protesting against the action.

A BOLD THREAT.

RUSSIA.

ARRESTING NIHILISTS.

[illegible], Sept. [illegible].—Advices from Warsaw state that [illegible] the arrest of nihilists is of almost daily occurrence. Six [illegible] persons were arrested last Sunday morning. Police [illegible] have issued an order prohibiting nihilists and per[illegible] sons from appearing within [illegible] yards of the [illegible] [illegible] officers and [illegible] have been ordered to fire at [illegible] any one who [illegible] as he entered [illegible] Warsaw.

APPALLING NEWS.

ST. JOHNS, Sept. 9.—The latest Labrador news is [illegible] appalling. The codfish catch is short about 300,000 [illegible] quintals and on the northeast coast of Newfound[illegible] land famine is imminent. About 3000 families are [illegible] reported starving and are sustaining life at present [illegible] upon [illegible]. The whole coast of Newfoundland and [illegible] Labrador is studded with icebergs.

POLITICAL DRIFT.

There is an awful rumor that another democratic [illegible] baby is to enter the canvass at an early day.—Chi[illegible] cago [illegible]

Burlington Hawk-eye: Pomeroy had sense enough [illegible] to withdraw from a losing race. Cleveland still re[illegible] mains on the track—or rather in the woods.

New York Dial: Carl Schurz says by the bones of [illegible] his ancestors if Blaine is elected he will leave [illegible] America forever. Do you hear that? Now then all [illegible] together for Blaine.

In Ohio the democrats are circulating documents [illegible] among all the saloons and old topers accusing Blaine [illegible] of being a prohibitionist. They hope to carry the [illegible] state on that issue.

Mrs. Malaprop having read in the Evening Post [illegible] that it was all the fault of the widows, remarked [illegible] that [illegible] show the White house is no place for [illegible] [illegible] —New York Tribune.

The independent free trade kickers started out [illegible] with a brass band proclamation that they were going [illegible] to purify politics. The machine they are running [illegible] with never before squirted dirty water so furiously.—[illegible] Chicago Inter Ocean.

Cincinnati Commercial Gazette (Rep.): There is [illegible] not a manufacturer in England that would not vote [illegible] for Cleveland if he could. The fact is democratic [illegible] free trade notions are more in the interest of En[illegible] gland than the United States.

Lake Geneva Herald: It is strange that every po[illegible] litical paper in this country that supports St. John [illegible] by encouragement in its editorial columns flies the [illegible] name of Cleveland or Butler—in most cases Cleve[illegible] land—at its masthead.

New York Sun (Dem.): The blunders of the [illegible] Cleveland Democrats open the way for Gen. Butler [illegible] and his friends to step forward and by honorable [illegible] combination capture several congressmen in New [illegible] England, New York and New Jersey.

The election mathematicians have set to work. [illegible] Of course figures cannot lie, but there is a larger [illegible] proportion of invention and imagination to the [illegible] square inch in them than was ever known in any [illegible] other manifestation of exact science.

A democratic congressman writing from New [illegible] York warns his party friends not to credit the repub[illegible] lican cry of lack of money. He says the republican [illegible] committee have plenty of money and are only try[illegible] ing to throw the democrats off the track by pretend[illegible] ing not to have any.

Chicago Tribune: It is to be hoped that republican [illegible] managers will become thoroughly alarmed at the [illegible] danger of losing Ohio in October. Such an appre[illegible] hension will infuse more energy, earnestness and [illegible] ingenuity into their side of the fight than could be [illegible] obtained from any other condition.

Cleveland Leader (Rep.): If the democrats choose [illegible] to make this state the battle ground, the republicans [illegible] should cheerfully accept the defy, and go in and give [illegible] them such a thrashing as will demoralize and stam[illegible] pede their forces in other states. We have the votes [illegible] with which to do it, and all that is necessary is to [illegible] organize and get them out.

Pittsburg Dispatch: The Ohio democracy is becom[illegible] ing suspicious that its vacillating course on the [illegible] liquor question has disgusted the saloonkeepers [illegible] [illegible] order to hold them through the present cam[illegible] paign a new effort is to be made to declare the Scott [illegible] law unconstitutional. Judge Owens, who upheld [illegible] the law when it was [illegible] the supreme court [illegible] has been won over, it is claimed.

A handsome pictorial paper of sixteen pages has [illegible] just been brought out at New York, entitled Van[illegible] ity Fair Illustrated Weekly. The paper is evidently [illegible] modeled on the lines of Harper's Weekly but is hon[illegible] estly and handsomely republican. The cartoon on [illegible] the opening page makes a striking presentation of [illegible] the difference between Cleveland and Blaine. There [illegible] is every indication in the new paper that it has come [illegible] to stay—a fact for which thousands of republicans, [illegible] indignant at what they regard as the treachery of an [illegible] old friend—will be peculiarly grateful.

The Sun of New York has an interesting letter [illegible] from a correspondent in Hartford who says demo[illegible] cratic paralysis has set in in Connecticut, and the [illegible] state is now "hopelessly lost"—to Cleveland. The [illegible] New Haven independent organization has dwindled [illegible] away and what is left of it has no energy. The in[illegible] tending bolters in other parts of the state no longer [illegible] talk of voting for the democratic nominee. This [illegible] letter was opportunely printed on the first page of [illegible] the Sun and in the first column of the page the day [illegible] after the democratic convention of Connecticut.

CORVALLIS COLLEGE ALIAS AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE.

CORVALLIS, Sept. 8.

To the Editor of The Oregonian:

The people of the state are under the impression [illegible] that there is a full-fledged agricultural college at [illegible] Corvallis. The appropriations made by the legisla[illegible] tures since 1872 aggregating $4[illegible], the handsome [illegible] endowment of 90,000 acres of land donated by the [illegible] general government from which $81,[illegible] has been [illegible] realized so far, and is bearing 8 and 10 per cent in[illegible] terest, and the deceptive reports of President Arnold [illegible] to the legislature have created this impression [illegible] throughout the state. These reports never contain [illegible] any financial exhibit as do the reports from the [illegible] State university, and are misleading in reference to [illegible] agricultural teaching. The legislature of 1872 [illegible] [illegible] designated the agricultural [illegible] college at Corvallis and through party [illegible] manipulation it was handed over to [illegible] the South Methodist church [illegible] [illegible] a part of their unprofitable [illegible] Corvallis [illegible] college under the tutorage of Revs. Finley and [illegible] Emery. The legislature prescribed a course of [illegible] study which was set aside by the president and [illegible] faculty. In substitution for the regular college [illegible] grades of freshman, sophomore, junior and senior [illegible] they classed their students as [illegible] chief [illegible] physics, [illegible] mathematics, moral science, ancient languages, [illegible] modern languages, history and literature, engineer[illegible] ing and agriculture, having an elaborate course of [illegible] study as a first-class university. This voluminous [illegible] and extensive work was done by three teachers—[illegible] Rev. Emery, an alumnus (not a graduate) of Santa [illegible] Rosa college, California, and Professors Arnold and [illegible] Hawthorne, graduates of a school at Macon, Georgia.

President Arnold's report to the legislature con[illegible] tains the course of study prescribed by the state. [illegible] The legislature prescribed in the first year [illegible] of study as follows: In the pre[illegible] paratory class military exercise [illegible] [illegible] and agriculture practical instruction on farm. [illegible] To the freshman year theory and practice, agri[illegible] culture, principles of tillage, draining, and [illegible] landscape gardening, military tactics, drill [illegible] [illegible] junior year theory and practice of agriculture, [illegible] horticulture (farm impl[illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] breeding, geological and botanical excursions. [illegible] The [illegible] year, the [illegible] [illegible] training and culture of fruit trees, the vine, small [illegible] fruits, culture of flowers, military [illegible] [illegible] the senior year, [illegible] laying out of towns [illegible] military tactics, etc. This work is not done or [illegible] ever has been. The school has not one [illegible] of agricultural chemistry, lectures on stock breeding [illegible] by Rev. Emery [illegible] [illegible] fruit culture, [illegible] by Professor Hawthorne. [illegible] The military and practical work [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] the [illegible] [illegible] the [illegible] Agricultural [illegible] I guess this is the first official [illegible] during this time [illegible] legislature [illegible] the title [illegible] members of the South Me[illegible] thodist church [illegible] for [illegible] our college. The other intended to [illegible] the people of Oregon. In the catalogues of '83 and [illegible] 1884 it is named Corvallis Oregon state agricultu[illegible] ral college.

About twelve years ago many citizens of Benton [illegible] county subscribed to purchase a farm of thirty-five [illegible] acres adjoining Corvallis. This farm was to [illegible] be deeded to the state and was to be used by the [illegible] agricultural college to teach practical agriculture. [illegible] It was deeded to the board of trustees of Corvallis [illegible] college, which is a creature of the South Methodist [illegible] conference, and is controlled by the Methodist confer[illegible] ence. This farm is now and has been rented out [illegible] at $[illegible] per annum.

The law provides for the free tuition of sixty [illegible] young men over 16 years old. Young men may [illegible] secure appointments by applying to the senator for [illegible] the district in which they reside. The presumption [illegible] of the law is that each of the thirty senators would [illegible] appoint two young men from the counties which [illegible] they represent, thereby having every county in the [illegible] state represented in the college. But what are the [illegible] facts? Of fifty-seven state students last year more [illegible] than thirty are residents of Benton county. A boy [illegible] born and raised in Benton is made to hail from [illegible] Grant, Umatilla or Jackson. In proof of this I call [illegible] attention to President Arnold's report of the legisla[illegible] ture of 1882 [illegible] Luther Cation, C. Cation [illegible] Ervin [illegible] J. [illegible] and twenty more all Benton county boys [illegible] respectively represent Jackson, Grant, Washington, [illegible] Josephine and other counties. In his annual [illegible] report the president reported ten students from Ben[illegible] ton. By a short mathematical calculation we find [illegible] that Benton was entitled to five students during his [illegible] period. Benton furnishes at that time [illegible] thirty-one of the sixty state students. [illegible] The school opens in the fall with thirty to forty [illegible] students, consisting of a [illegible] primary, high, advanced [illegible] scholars, and closes in June with about the same at[illegible] tendance. Hence, at no one time is the quota of [illegible] state students in attendance. Those that attend [illegible] spend three or four months during the school year. [illegible] During last year 1[illegible], including state students, [illegible] were enrolled, a large number [illegible] primary and pre[illegible] paratory. This institution is as denominational as [illegible] Willamette university. The exercises open with [illegible] religious devotions by Rev. Emery. The college [illegible] chapel is a part of the school building and is under [illegible] the immediate control of a board of trustees appoint[illegible] ed by the South Methodist quarterly conference. [illegible] The pastor holds religious exercises in this building [illegible] on every Sunday. The South Methodist ministers [illegible] send to this state institution [illegible] pay but one half [illegible] of the regular tuition.

A year ago a number of enterprising citizens en[illegible] deavored to bring about the separation of church [illegible] and state. Rev. J. R. N. Bell, a prominent preacher [illegible] and member of the college board, and Rev. Emery [illegible] were consulted and in accordance with their views [illegible] a petition was framed and addressed to the annual [illegible] conference of the M. E. church south. This peti[illegible] tion was signed by Hon. John Burnett, Dr. J. B. Lee, [illegible] Green B. Smith, Hon. A. M. Witham, Dr. J. B. Lay[illegible] ley, all members of the board of trustees, and a great [illegible] many other citizens. Revs. Emery and Bell fought [illegible] the petition before the conference and defeated it. [illegible] They published a card afterward stating that it [illegible] would be suicidal to the school if [illegible] and the col[illegible] lege to segregate. The president and faculty claim [illegible] that the school cannot succeed unless backed by the [illegible] church. The State university is a grand success; [illegible] the agricultural college is a flat failure.

With an appropriation of $[illegible] per annum from [illegible] the state, an increasing endowment of $[illegible] from [illegible] the general government and an annual tuition of [illegible] $1,[illegible], this school, under [illegible] control, cannot [illegible] command dignity and respect [illegible] students according to law [illegible] [illegible] the state. [illegible] state students [illegible] graded [illegible] county. [illegible] according to the law and [illegible] the president [illegible] and faculty with [illegible] the course pre[illegible] scribed by the legislature [illegible] college course the state is furnishing money to carry [illegible] on this entire school. This is supporting one de[illegible] nominational school to the exclusion of all others. [illegible] We need an agricultural and mechanical school. It [illegible] should be like the State university [illegible]

NOTES FROM WASHINGTON CITY

[Correspondence of The Oregonian.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. [illegible]

The past month has been one of exceptional dull[illegible] ness so far as the capital is concerned. Not even the [illegible] political contest pending has been able to dispel the [illegible] deathlike appearance of all public affairs. Nearly all [illegible] the officials of importance have been out of town [illegible] and everything beyond routine has been at a [illegible] standstill. It is expected though that business in [illegible] the departments will now pick up as the leading [illegible] officers must soon return to commence the prepara[illegible] tion of the annual reports.

The report of Captain Powell on the survey of the [illegible] Duwamish river, Washington territory, with a view [illegible] to its improvement, says:

"The Duwamish is a stream fifteen miles long, [illegible] formed by the junction of the White and Black [illegible] rivers, and emptying into the head of the Duwamish [illegible] or Elliott's bay, on the eastern shore of Puget sound. [illegible] Of the three channels at the mouth of the Duwam[illegible] ish the main one is about 100 feet wide and 10 to 12 [illegible] feet deep at low tide. The general width of the [illegible] river is 100 to 300 feet, the ruling depth is 7 feet. [illegible] Tide extends the whole length of the river. The [illegible] river is very tortuous, the distance from the head to [illegible] the mouth is one-half that measured along the [illegible] stream.

"The bottom land of the Duwamish and lower [illegible] White is from one mile to two miles wide. The soil [illegible] is a deep rich alluvial deposit, except at the Du[illegible] wamish mouth where it is somewhat sandy. The [illegible] greater part of the land has been cleared and is cul[illegible] tivated, the remainder is covered with a dense [illegible] growth of vine maple, alder brush and cottonwood. [illegible] "For nine or ten months of the year steamers of [illegible] three feet draught can ascend as far as fifteen miles [illegible] on the White and occasionally at highest stages to [illegible] the mouth of the Green, three miles further. Dur[illegible] ing the summer when low stages occur, this draught [illegible] can not be carried above the Duwamish head. The [illegible] farmers of the valley depend mainly on the rivers [illegible] for transportation. The Duwamish and White have [illegible] been navigated for several years. Navigation is im[illegible] peded by many snags whose roots are imbedded in [illegible] the mud bottom and by a group of piles, whose [illegible] broken tops are submerged, and which were former[illegible] ly used to hold a log boom. In the eddies of some [illegible] of the abrupt river bends existing snags prevent [illegible] ascending steamers from taking advantage of good [illegible] water when the river is high and the channel cur[illegible] rent swift.

"I have to report that the Duwamish river is [illegible] worthy of minor improvement but has the work [illegible] is not a public necessity. An improvement would [illegible] consist in snagging operations and its project would [illegible] be similar to that already adopted for the Skagit and [illegible] other rivers. Two thousand dollars would pay for [illegible] work on the Duwamish."

During the past year seventy-six patents were [illegible] issued to citizens of Oregon, an average of one to [illegible] every 2,[illegible] people. Residents of Washington received [illegible] twenty-one patents, or one to every [illegible] people. [illegible] This evidence of the inventive genius of those on [illegible] the Pacific coast is gratifying in view of the fact that [illegible] it is equal to many of those states where manufac[illegible] turing has long been conducted.

The following changes have been made in the [illegible] postal service in the state:

Star service changes: Dora to Myrtle Point—From [illegible] September 10 increase service to three times a week. [illegible] Jacksonville to Medford—From same date increase [illegible] service to seven times a week. Lone Rock to Monu[illegible] ment—From September 10 curtail service to end at [illegible] Wagner, omitting Monument.

Changes in star schedule: Purdy to Weston—[illegible] Leave Purdy Monday and Friday at 1 P. M.; arrive at [illegible] Weston by 6 P. M. Leave Weston Monday and Fri[illegible] day at 6:30 A. M.; arrive at Purdy by 12 M.

A new postoffice has been established at Bay City, [illegible] Chehalis county, Washington.

John R. Lewis has been commissioned postmaster [illegible] at Lena, Oregon.

THE ASSESSMENT QUESTION.

SILVERTON, Sept. [illegible]

To the Editor of The Oregonian:

Suggestions and proposals for the amendment of [illegible] the assessment law submitted to the legislators of [illegible] Oregon for their views thereon, by the secretary of [illegible] state, a printed pamphlet, has been received and [illegible] carefully studied by the undersigned and inasmuch [illegible] as the aforesaid proposals and suggestions are com[illegible] pletely antagonistic to the amendments proposed [illegible] by the last legislature and vetoed by the governor I [illegible] desire to make a few remarks and suggestions [illegible] through the columns of THE OREGONIAN in answer [illegible] to those of the secretary of state. Accompanying [illegible] the pamphlet is a circular bearing the autograph of [illegible] the secretary requesting that criticisms be returned [illegible] to the state department, so that a bill may be [illegible] framed, etc. I prefer the public press because I [illegible] desire that the members of the next legislature as [illegible] well as the state officers shall see what I have to say. [illegible] [illegible] political conventions [illegible] resolved in favor of reforming or doing something [illegible] better for our revenue system and consequently all [illegible] the members of the legislature are specially charged [illegible] with that duty.

The principal part of the statement of the sug[illegible] gestions is true and wholly undisputable. They [illegible] have been told over thousands of times by the news[illegible] papers of the state.

Directly the old assessment law are tersely stated [illegible] accompanied by the statement that the present law [illegible] requires them to be done. Not only so but our law [illegible] tells how they shall be done. No law in the world [illegible] can do more.

But those things are not done. The secretary's [illegible] pamphlet suggests a remedy, and what is it? A state [illegible] board of equalization formed by all the assessors of [illegible] the state.

This would be a very costly affair, per diem, travel[illegible] ing expenses and all, an additional burden upon the [illegible] taxpayers; but what would it do? Help to equalize [illegible] the lists as between the counties.

This want of equality of assessment among the [illegible] counties is the least of our grievances. There is [illegible] very little complaint in that direction.

The author of the suggestions states the real [illegible] grievance: All property is not listed; farms are [illegible] missed. In one case a whole precinct [illegible] was skipped. And why? Because the assessor [illegible] was a non-resident. Did he know where he was? [illegible] Very few farms are missed. Same farms escape [illegible] five years, and why? The same story. The as[illegible] sessor [illegible] the precinct—he can't live in [illegible] every precinct and ordinarily a man's [illegible] knowledge of the value of land or [illegible] the wealth of landowners does not extend [illegible] far [illegible] and as popu[illegible] lation increases and farms are subdivided into lots [illegible] [illegible] knowledge will not cover a precinct.

[illegible] a state board of equalization however [illegible] [illegible] to remedy such evils as we have [illegible] stated. Manifestly not at all. The hard work is [illegible] done in depicting the county rolls, whether one [illegible] [illegible] thousand [illegible] or half a dozen [illegible] [illegible] by the deputy assessors. There is [illegible] [illegible] to have a small assessment [illegible] [illegible] and then [illegible] [illegible] the precinct assessor [illegible] [illegible] and densely populated [illegible] have been compelled to do, and there is no [illegible] other way to [illegible] actually accurate as [illegible] the law requires.

[illegible] Everybody [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] at what it [illegible] [illegible] course of business.

[illegible] what land in every [illegible] of the county is worth when guided by such [illegible] as he states gives him. Certainly [illegible] How could he in a single precinct take into [illegible] consideration the improvements on the land and the [illegible] surrounding country, the quality of soil, its conven[illegible] ience to navigation, public roads, mills and other [illegible] advantages, and fix a price any where within [illegible] gunshot of the actual cash value when he misses [illegible] the farms and even the lots. The fact is the [illegible] [illegible] is a roaring farce. The law requires an [illegible] impossibility of the county assessor and his depu[illegible] ties. In order to assess a land a man must know it. If [illegible] living by or near it he must go upon and exam[illegible] ine it carefully, but such an examination requires [illegible] more time than can be given to each farm by the [illegible] present method. The only change which [illegible] would remedy the evil is to mul[illegible] tiply deputies, and still better to choose some man [illegible] as deputy who lives near by and has the ad[illegible] vantage of being acquainted with the premises [illegible] [illegible] substance the precinct assessor bill [illegible] [illegible]

If the allegation is true that the more assessors [illegible] we have the more unequal will be the assess[illegible] ment [illegible] to be but one assessor in the [illegible] state [illegible] the work. Neither can one [illegible] [illegible] usually [illegible] [illegible] enough to do the work well [illegible] to assess property [illegible] fairly and everybody knows that [illegible] to the present [illegible] time the county assessor and his deputies have [illegible]

Singular it is that the [illegible] where the as[illegible] sessor [illegible] districts are [illegible] as large as our pre[illegible] cincts, the inequalities arising from numerous [illegible] assessors have not [illegible] the law makers for nearly [illegible] [illegible] years.

In none we have [illegible] a thousand [illegible] assessors [illegible] [illegible] there be [illegible] [illegible] equalization [illegible] board.

I know of none except to create more offices. Cash [illegible] valuation is already equalized [illegible] have [illegible] and everybody knows it. True. But suppose we [illegible] have half valuation as it is now intended in [illegible] the valley counties [illegible] needs no equalization if it [illegible] is uniform. Any proportion of cash valuation an[illegible] swers the purpose as completely as full cash valua[illegible] tion. Neither needs equalizing.

We need one law authorizing the state officers to [illegible] make the levy for the current expenses of the state [illegible] in the same manner that the county court does for [illegible] the county, and then the great dread in the minds of [illegible] the people of full cash valuation will be removed. [illegible] Assessors will be released from their long bondage [illegible] and property values will find a cheap and speedy [illegible] equalization on the assessment rolls without the [illegible] interposition of a state board.

The proceedings of the British association of sci[illegible] entists at Montreal are full of interest to Mr. Cleve[illegible] land. He has a personal interest in the discussion [illegible] concerning the discoloration of hair when turned [illegible] into scalp belt.—Exchange.

"The French have beaten," exclaimed an old gen[illegible] tleman on a ferry boat yesterday afternoon. And [illegible] forthwith twenty-four young men who were sucking [illegible] canes took out their base ball score books to see what [illegible] club he referred to.—New York Tribune.

Solomon in the Shade.

When Solomon was asked to decide which of two [illegible] women a child belonged to, he called for his sword [illegible] and proposed to cut the child in two and give a half [illegible] to each, the real mother went into hysterics, and [illegible] Solomon decided in her favor. But at the Mixed [illegible] court on Friday morning an actual division was made [illegible] and Solomon's judgment was put in the shade. The [illegible] chattel in dispute was a black dog, with his [illegible] tail clipped bare except at the extremity which [illegible] still retained some long hair. The dog was quite [illegible] unconcerned and went sniffing around the arena [illegible] and under the court table at the magistrate's feet, or [illegible] wherever his tether would allow him to extend his [illegible] explorations. The claimants for the dog were a butch[illegible] er and a washerman. The butcher's assistant held a [illegible] string in his hand, with the dog at the end of it. The [illegible] washerman held a basket in his hand containing [illegible] hair which he had clipped from the dog's tail, and [illegible] which he produced in proof of ownership. Mr. [illegible] Howes, inspector of markets, stated that he had [illegible] known the butcher for many years and he had seen [illegible] the dog at his place, and he believed that the dog [illegible] belonged to the butcher. It was also stated by the [illegible] police that an experiment had been tried at Hong[illegible] kew police station; the washerman called on the dog [illegible] but it would not follow him, but when the [illegible] butcher called the dog heard his master's voice and [illegible] knew the sound thereof. As a last resort to prove [illegible] that the dog loved him and belonged to him the [illegible] washerman pulled off his jacket and showed a [illegible] ter stuck between his shoulder blades, saying that [illegible] the dog had bit him there. The magistrate decided [illegible] in favor of the washerman so far that he was allowed [illegible] to keep the basketful of hair and the butcher was [illegible] allowed to take the rest of the dog.

A New View of Mexico.

Edward A. Easton of Philadelphia, who has just [illegible] returned from a business trip into Mexico, says of [illegible] that country: "It is a diamond in the rough, with [illegible] a good deal of rough. Mexico is a country of lim[illegible] itless resources, agricultural and mineral, and [illegible] when Yankee enterprise is able to gain the mastery [illegible] over the [illegible] ignorance and prejudice of the people it [illegible] will be a very valuable neighbor. Four railroads [illegible] now cross the Mexican frontier. A large portion of [illegible] which, however, is wild and uninhabited. But in [illegible] the course of time towns will spring up and pros[illegible] perity will reign. I found a number of [illegible] Americans in Mexico. Something that ought [illegible] to be known is the condition of our com[illegible] merce. They are mostly Frenchmen and [illegible] Germans, many of whom cannot speak the English [illegible] language, and they are not particularly friendly to [illegible] our tradesmen. You see the Germans and French [illegible] have controlled that trade for 150 years, and have in[illegible] termarried with the natives. WEDNESDAY MORNING, SEPT. 10, 1884.

MAINE'S ELECTION.

While the result in Maine by no means settles the presidential election, the size of the majority makes it something of a pointer that way. All candid persons must admit that there is some significance in the largest majority which has been gained in the state since 18[illegible]. It renders it highly probable at least that all the states east of the Allegheny mountains will cast their votes for Blaine and Logan, since all those states will be moved by the same considerations that have had so much force in Maine. Mr. Blaine himself attributes the unusually great majority in Maine to the fact that the protective tariff was made the leading issue. He is probably right. In all the manufacturing states there is a settled purpose to uphold protection of which we who live in the non-manufacturing states have little conception. Appeals to this purpose will carry Ohio and Indiana as surely as Massachusetts, Connecticut, New Jersey and New York, if the distraction of politics and division of the vote produced by the liquor question in the west do not for the time change the result. And it may be set down that the republican managers, realizing the advantage it gives them, will work protection for all it is worth, and a good deal more.

Though the result in Maine has not settled the presidential election, it has settled one thing, namely, that the warfare of unexampled bitterness and malignity that has been made on Mr. Blaine has not shaken him in the esteem of those who know him best. While he says, modestly, that this great majority is due to advocacy of protection by the republican party, others may fairly say that there is in it a vindication of Mr. Blaine by his own people from the measureless aspersions to which he has been subjected. Evidently the people of Maine, who are equals in honesty and morality of those of any other part of the country, do not believe that Mr. Blaine is a corrupt, unsafe and dishonest man. It will now be said, of course, that his own state was expected to sustain him by a very large majority. But why should it be expected to do so if he were so bad a man as opponents have represented him? His own people are the very ones who would know this best if it were true; and they are the very ones, therefore, who, were it true, would vote most decisively against him.

It is beyond doubt that the republicans threw a great deal of energy into their campaign in Maine. This is just the sort of thing that republicans are capable of doing on important occasions; and now they are going to make an effort in Ohio incomparably greater than any ever put forth by the party in any state. This effort will be made because the strength of the whisky alliance with the democratic party in that state is fully realized, as well as the bearing of the October result in Ohio on the final contest of November. Ohio will vote on the 14th of October. The republicans are going to give the state such a shake as it never had before; and when it is said that they are going to make one of their intense and supreme efforts, the statement means a good deal. Never yet has the republican party been fairly beaten in a great northern state when it put forth an effort of this kind. It has always hitherto been found that there is in the party a reserve of strength which has astonished its adversaries and borne down the most vigorous and strenuous efforts they have been able to make.

JOHN A. LOGAN.

It is seldom one picks up a democratic paper of the meaner and more irresponsible sort that does not contain in some form the assertion that John A. Logan at the outbreak of the war enlisted men in southern Illinois for the Confederate army, offered his own services to the rebel government, and only resolved to fight for the Union in consequence of a pique against Jeff. Davis, because the latter would not give him a commission. The story is usually supplemented with a lot of snivel and cant, intended to be very impressive about the traitorly meanness of one who would induce young men of his acquaintance to espouse the rebel cause and then desert them to take up arms on the other side. Though it is a fact that no one even of the smallest standing for character and responsibility has ventured for years to make this charge against General Logan, yet democratic organs which have no character to lose and realize none of the responsibilities of journalism try to keep the thing agoing. The false charge was overwhelmingly refuted by General Logan long ago, and more recently he took notice of it in the senate, when some remarks were made in that body which seemed to contain allusion to it. The official record of the senate contains this last refutation, which is so ample that only professional slanderers have since repeated the charge.

This refutation is published in the Congressional Record of April 20, 1881. General Logan shows that in 1858 he was elected to congress as an anti-Lecompton democrat, not a "Bourbon," and that in 1860 he was again elected as a Douglas man, as distinguishable from the "Bourbon" or Breckinridge democracy of that day. At the beginning of the year 1861, when secession became rampant in Washington and in the halls of congress, he promptly took his stand with the Union men of the country, which fact is evinced by his vote on the following resolution on the 7th of January, 1861, introduced by Mr. Adrian of New Jersey:

> Resolved, That we fully approve of the bold and patriotic act of Major Anderson in withdrawing from Fort Moultrie to Fort Sumter, and of the determination of the president to maintain that fearless officer in his present position; and that we will support the president in all constitutional measures to enforce the laws and preserve the Union.

The vote on this resolution stood, ayes, 124; nays, 53. Among the latter, besides the southern secessionists, were such representative northern democrats as Pendleton and Vallandigham of Ohio and Niblack of Indiana. Logan, pending the vote, took occasion to say, "As the resolution receives my unqualified approbation, I vote aye." That was nearly two months before the inauguration of Mr. Lincoln, and before a single gun had been fired to announce the determination of rebellion against the government. Again, as the files of the Congressional Globe show, Logan made a speech in the house on the 5th day of February, 1861, in which he said:

> Sir, I have always denied and do yet deny the right of secession. It is wrong, it is unconstitutional, and should be called by its right name—revolution. I would to-day, if I had the power, sink my own party and every other with all their platforms into the vortex of ruin, without heaving a sigh or shedding a tear, to save the union, or even to stop the revolution where it is.

General Logan also produced letters from Senators Lamar and Pugh, democrats, with whom he was on the most friendly terms prior to the rebellion, but who took part in it, showing that they, as fellow representatives with General Logan before the beginning of the war in 1861, knew that he was vehement in his opposition to secession and deplored the contemplated movement in as strong terms as they had heard from any republican. He produced also, a letter signed by many democrats of Williamson county, Illinois, where he then resided, bearing testimony that he did not participate, as charged, in a certain meeting held in that county in April, 1861, which passed resolutions in favor of secession; that he was not in the county at the time; and more to the same effect. So intensely democratic were the people who held that meeting that a number of them resolved to join the secession movement, and a small company was raised by a Marylander named Thorndike Brooks, then living in Williamson county, which went south and entered the confederate service. The testimony of a number of the men of that company, who came back after the war, was produced by General Logan, showing that he took no part in the movement and was not even aware of it, not being in the county at the time. This testimony was supported at all points by a letter from Thorndike Brooks himself, who served in the southern army throughout the war, and rose to the rank of lieutenant-colonel. Much other evidence as to his political status at that time was presented by General Logan, all from democratic sources; and since then no question has been raised in any respectable quarter about it.

It is well enough known that before the war General Logan was an ardent democrat. He shared to the full the prejudice of the democratic party against the negro; insisted on enforcement of the fugitive slave law; wanted to keep free negroes out of Illinois, and aided in passing through the legislature the iniquitous "black laws" of that state. But all this was good democratic doctrine, and to reproach him for it is to reproach his party. It is, however, to be said in his favor that he was not a secessionist like Hendricks, Vallandigham and Pendleton; that instead of sympathizing with the rebellion as they did and as the democratic party did, he entered the military service of the country when the first advance into southern territory was made, and remained with the army to the last. Though a member of congress when the war broke out, he took a musket and went to the front so as to be present at the battle of Bull Run, where he fought as a private soldier, and immediately after that disaster resigned his seat in congress, went home and raised a regiment, and was present in as many battles as any man during the war. He commanded first a regiment, then a brigade, then a division, then a corps, and finally Grant's old army of the Tennessee, which he mustered out at Louisville in 1865. He then resigned his commission, preferring not to receive pay from the government when there was no duty to perform. Had he remained a democrat, as Hendricks did, opposed the war as Hendricks did, become a copperhead as Hendricks did, striven to protect and perpetuate slavery as Hendricks did, sorrowed at national victories as Hendricks did, pronounced the war a failure as Hendricks did, fought the constitutional amendments as Hendricks did, declared them revolutionary and void as Hendricks did, and joined in the effort to repudiate the national debt as Hendricks did, he would undoubtedly have continued in high favor with the old party of which he was a member, and very probably would now have the place on its national ticket that Hendricks holds.

A WISE GOVERNOR.

Governor Hoadly of Ohio has been criticised in some newspapers for the moderation he displayed in dealing with the striking miners of the Hocking Valley, and has been accused of lacking personal and political courage. But in his moderation he exhibited the truest courage, that which arises from self possession and self-restraint, and a desire to do justice. The owners of the mines have an undoubted right to employ Italian and other laborers, and to introduce machinery to cheapen the cost of production. But they should not have attempted to compass their ends by false pretenses. The complaint of the miners is that the companies, desiring to appropriate to themselves all the benefits of the new machinery, reduced wages from 70 to 60 cents per ton; not because the wages were too high, but in order to get rid of the union and to fill the mines with laborers who would work on a different basis. The prudent and honorable way to bring about such a change would have been to tell the miners at the outset what was intended, and let them go or stay. When Governor Hoadly was called upon for troops he visited the scene of disturbance personally, and made speeches to the miners instead of ordering the troops to fire upon them. He pursued the true republican method, such as the governor of Vermont adopted when called upon to suppress a riot at the Ely copper mines last year. Instead of despatching troops to be employed by the owners of the mines, he told them that they must first do justice to their employes, and thus he compelled them to make provision for the payment of the arrears of the workmen's wages. This exigency can seldom arise in a country where the laws are in reality democratic and the people have practical control over their own affairs, which would justify the use of the military in behalf of the rich and powerful corporations which make such demands sometimes on very slight provocations. The authorities have been too apt to assume that the laboring men are the only offenders, when, as a matter of fact, they are as often sinned against as sinning. Rioting, of course, must not be permitted, but the attempt to defraud the laborer of his just rights and to enforce the demand by the strong arm of the state is of the essence of anarchy. Governor Hoadly's example is one which should be emulated as well as commended.

BOSS RULE.

All the indications point to the conclusion that the people of Virginia have resolved to crush Mahone in the coming election. His dictatorial methods have not only made it impossible for the readjusters and "straight-out" republicans to unite, but have produced a revolt in his own organization. The uprising against his oppressive rule embraces such men as Riddleberger, his colleague in the senate of the United States, Governor Cameron and others of almost equal prominence throughout the length and breadth of the commonwealth. He has been one of the most offensive of the political "bosses" who have been overthrown by their own arrogance within the past few years. He has never shown any attachment to principle. He used the repudiation movement only as a means of promoting his own personal power, and his professed solicitude for the cause of education and the rights of colored citizens was only intended to bring about the coalition which gave him the control of the state government. His career would never have been possible if he had not had control of the federal patronage, and that he was allowed this control is the least creditable thing in the administration of President Arthur. His downfall will be the occasion of rejoicing for all believers in decency in politics and honesty in government. It will be another illustration of the comfortable truth that the political boss is of necessity short lived. His selfish policy and dictatorial methods sooner or later produce their inevitable results. Other men have ambitions to gratify, and the people will not long submit to the control of an intolerable leader.

Mr. Blaine talks in a very sensible way about prohibition. It is a matter solely for local action. Nothing whatever can be done for it by trying to make it an issue in national politics. Each state already has all the power over the liquor traffic that could be exerted within its borders by the general government, and more; for the general government cannot deal with this question unless the people are prepared to surrender to it all local authority and all local administration. Moreover, to give the general government any power whatever over the liquor traffic an amendment to the constitution of the United States must first be secured, which no rational person deems possible. Restriction and regulation of the liquor traffic by state authority are possible, and in some states prohibition may be carried; but the general government possesses no power whatever that can be brought to bear on the subject. The question therefore should never be pushed into national politics.

The apparent objective point in the Butler scheme is to prevent an election by the people by diverting the electoral vote in some of the states. But what he can expect from an election by the house of representatives is beyond conjecture. Perhaps he is conducting the campaign for the personal enjoyment he gets out of it. Some one said to Charles Lamb, after listening to a very eloquent discourse from Coleridge in behalf of the poor, "Mr. Coleridge seems to take a very profound interest in poor people." But Lamb, who had heard the same kind of talk many times before, replied, "O-h, no-no-never mind Coleridge; he's fu-full of fun." Butler is full of fun.

HISTORY ILLUMINATED.

One of the most interesting passages in Mr. Blaine's book, "Twenty Years in Congress," is the review of the concessions which republicans were willing to make in order to save the Union. He shows that Seward, Sumner, Chase, Charles Francis Adams, Wade, Thad. Stevens and other lesser lights, both within and without congress, took the same ground in 1860, when confronted by the prospect of secession, which they had denounced Webster for taking ten years before. In the memorable winter of 1860 and 1861 Charles Francis Adams, who had accepted, in 1848, a nomination for the vice presidency from the free soilers and conscience whigs, proposed that the constitution of the United States be so amended that no subsequent amendment thereto "having for its object any interference with slavery shall originate with any state that does not recognize that relation within its own limits, or shall be valid without the assent of every one of the states composing the union." Mr. Blaine justly says "no southern man during the long agitation of the slavery question, extending from 1820 to 1860, had ever submitted so extreme a proposition as that of Mr. Adams. The most precious muniments of personal liberty never had such deep embedment in the organic law of the republic as Mr. Adams now proposed for the protection of slavery. The well grounded jealousy and fear of the smaller states had originally secured a provision that their right to equal representation in the senate should never be taken from them even by an amendment to the constitution. Mr. Adams now proposed to give an equal safeguard and protection to the institution of slavery."

Mr. Adams was so panic-stricken at this time that he advocated the Crittenden compromise by arguments identical with those which in 1850 he had denounced Webster for using in the 7th of March speech. In the early months of 1861 the anti-slavery leaders in both houses of congress, by the requisite two-thirds vote, passed the Corwin amendment, which provided that "no amendment shall be made to the constitution which will authorize or give to congress the power to abolish or interfere, within any state, with the domestic institutions thereof, including that of persons held to labor or service by the laws of said state." The rapid progress of events prevented this amendment's acceptance by the people, but its passage shows what concessions the republican leaders were willing to make in order to preserve the Union.

By this same compromising congress, with a republican majority in both houses, acts organizing the territories of Colorado, Dakota and Nevada were passed, without containing a word of prohibition on the subject of slavery. "Surely," observes Mr. Blaine, "if an anti-slavery restriction were needed for Oregon, it was needed for Dakota, which lay in the same latitude. Beyond doubt, if the territory of Kansas required a prohibition of slavery, the territory of Colorado and the territory of Nevada, which lay as far south, needed it also."

"It must be admitted," he adds, "that the republican party took in 1861 precisely the same ground which had been held by Mr. Webster in 1850, and acted from precisely the same motives that inspired the 7th of March speech. Mr. Webster maintained for New Mexico only what Mr. Sumner now admitted for Colorado and Nevada. Mr. Webster acted from the same consideration that influenced and controlled the judgment of Mr. Seward. As a matter of historic justice, the republicans who waived the anti-slavery restriction should at least have offered and recorded their apology for any animadversions they had made upon the course of Mr. Webster ten years before. Every prominent republican senator who agreed in 1861 to abandon the principle of the Wilmot proviso in organizing the territories of Colorado and Nevada, had in 1850 heaped reproach upon Mr. Webster for not insisting upon the same principle for the same territory. Between the words of Mr. Seward and Mr. Sumner in the one crisis and their votes in the other, there is a discrepancy for which it would have been well to leave on record an adequate explanation. The danger to the union, in which they found a good reason for receding from the anti-slavery restriction on the territories, had been cruelly denied to Mr. Webster as a justifying motive."

Thus Mr. Blaine clearly shows from the record, which the progress of events prevented from making a deep impression on the public mind, that the anti-slavery leaders who scoffed at Webster's solemn prediction of disunion in 1850 were ready to outbid him in offers of compromise when the war actually came.

The London Economist publishes tables showing that there has been a progressive decline in the total amount of transactions in real estate in Great Britain from £41,160,924 in 1874 to £25,117,685 in 1883, and that the depression is as great now as it was last year. Not more than one-fifth of the land put up at auction is actually sold. "Agricultural land," says the Economist, "is practically unsalable." Lord Rosebery, in a recent speech, said that not only had land declined in relative value, as compared with other kinds of property in the United Kingdom, but it had declined in absolute value. It was not only worth less, as compared with railway, manufacturing and mining property, but it was worth less in pounds, shillings and pence. This decline in agricultural land has been brought about by cheap transportation, which directly affects the rental value of land. With the modern improvements in the carrying trade, English land has reached the condition of American land all over the eastern states, and from precisely the same cause—the competition of cheaper or more fertile soil. It will never again support the landlord class in comfort and luxury, though the actual farmer and laborer may continue to live well off it. The Bessemer steel rail and the modern steamship will probably break up the great estates of England sooner than any legislation which the laboring class demand could produce that result.

Once more the published statement of the financial affairs of Multnomah county calls attention to the necessity of devising some proper method of restraining the robberies practiced in and through justices' courts. There is an army of looters who make it their business to "work" these miscalled courts of justice for all that can be made out of them. Cases that ought never to come into court are worked up expressly for fees. Every device taught by experience and proficiency in the games run in these bucket shops of justice is employed to make costs and roll up bills against the county. The record shows that a large proportion of the cases appealed are thrown out of the circuit court. They have served their purpose when they have put fees into the pockets of the justice mongering horde of the several precincts. Will not the members of the legislature for this county devise and get ready some measure for legislation to check these robberies, which so greatly increase the taxes of the people these hard times?

A London medical journal says that English women of the upper classes grow clumsy after middle life and sometimes before, because of tight lacing. While the stays support the form they prevent the play of the muscles necessary to healthy development, so instead of standing as men do women [illegible] downward by actual [illegible] of the muscular [illegible]. But it will take a stronger argument than that to [illegible] tight lacing.

[illegible] of the prominent English [illegible] have [illegible] that oatmeal water [illegible] in sustaining health and strength under severe labor. Tea and oatmeal proved superior both as to health and cheapness. The laborers were also encouraged in pursuing the test by allowing them in cash the difference of the cost between beer and the competing beverages.

The Chicago News, which has examined the recent school census of the city, finds that of the 629,985 Chicagoans of all descriptions, "but 143,000 are returned as Americans, leaving 486,985 classed as foreigners." It also finds that the German is the nationality most largely represented in Chicago, its numbers being 259,631 and its relation to the whole very nearly 41.2 per cent. Next in order come the Irish, who number 114,605, and compose 18.2 per cent of the population, being followed by the Bohemians with 28,281, and the Poles with [illegible]. The Scandinavian community is represented by [illegible] residents, who form 7.62 per cent of the whole. The English with [illegible], Scotch with [illegible], and Welsh with 1118, in all [illegible] per cent of the citizens.

CITY.

SUIT FOR PROFESSIONAL SERVICES.—Most of the [illegible] of the state circuit court yesterday was occupied by the trial before a jury of the case of Lemuel [illegible] against J. A. Chapman, mayor of the city. The [illegible] was called shortly after the opening of court [illegible] with the usual noon intermission [illegible] adjournment at 5 P. M., at which time the [illegible] lawyers were still introducing evidence [illegible] behalf. He is represented by R. H. Northup [illegible] W. M. Gregory, while the defense is conducted [illegible] Messrs. Caples & Mulkey. The plaintiff seeks to [illegible] $350 which he alleges in his complaint to be [illegible] professional services rendered. One service [illegible] the writing of a letter which was printed over [illegible] mayor's signature in answer to the charges [illegible] bribery and official corruption that were [illegible] against Chapman at the time by [illegible] OREGONIAN. This, it is claimed, was [illegible] $100. Another item is for legal advice [illegible] to have been furnished to Chapman during [illegible] investigation of his official conduct by the common council, $250. Then another $100 is claimed [illegible] writing the mayor's annual message, and $50 for [illegible] a loan for the mayor of $1500. After a [illegible] had been impaneled the attorneys stated their [illegible] brief speeches. The plaintiff was the first [illegible] called to the stand. He gave evidence substantiating his complaint and averred that his service were worth even more than he had asked for in [illegible]. He said a portion of the mayor's annual message had been dictated and the rest he had written without the mayor's assistance. In regard to [illegible] published letter signed by the mayor, he produced the original manuscript to prove that he had written it. He also stated that he went to the [illegible] of the Northwest News to get that [illegible] to print the letter; that the defendant [illegible] him that a representative of the News had [illegible] him and wanted $100 paid in advance for [illegible] publication of the letter; and that the mayor [illegible] the News man he might go to h—l. Several lawyers of this city were called as expert witnesses, their testimony developing the fact that [illegible] come high, but they have to have us, "for not [illegible] thought that writing such a letter as the plaintiff [illegible] he had written would be worth less than [illegible] and one, cloyed with success, thought it might [illegible] be worth $750 or $1000. One lawyer testified on cross-examination that he had written a [illegible] letter for another public man at one time in [illegible] life, although he did not receive what he [illegible] it was reasonably worth. "What did you [illegible]?" asked Mr. Caples. "Ten dollars," replied [illegible] witness, amid the laughter of his associates. [illegible] trial will be resumed to-day.

GOING TO EXAMINE THEIR HOUSES.—It seems that [illegible] officers of the Fourteenth infantry are not entirely satisfied with the quarters which their predecessors occupied for the last thirty five or forty [illegible], and they are making efforts to secure better [illegible]. An order has been issued convening a [illegible] of officers this week for the purpose of examining the several sets of log buildings at the barracks, used as officers' quarters. The detail of the [illegible] are Colonel Lewis C. Hunt, commanding the [illegible], Surgeon J. C. McKee, medical department, [illegible] W. S. Patton, quartermaster's department. The report will show, as far as possible, the present hygienic condition of the buildings and [illegible] adaptability for the purpose used, and recommendation will be made, if necessary, as to the repairs applicable to improve their sanitary condition [illegible] correct the reported evil. Also, whether it will [illegible] advantage to the health of the occupants, and [illegible] the interest of economy, to demolish these structures and erect others in their place, or more costly to remodel and repair the present buildings, [illegible] the latter, the state of the material composing [illegible] and if it can be utilized in purposes of construction. The chances are that the secretary of war will treat the complaint very much like the [illegible] in Yamhill county did her guest, who complained that the towel in the wash room was not [illegible] it should be. "Look here, young man," [illegible] "fifty men or more have wiped on that towel [illegible], and you're the first man to growl."

CONTRACTS LET.—The committee on streets and [illegible] property of the common council yesterday let [illegible] contract for replanking the N. street bridge with [illegible] inch plank to W. F. Dill for 34 cents per lineal [illegible]. Other bids were M. Tierney, 33½ cents; [illegible] Jackson, 40; W. S. Jones, 33½; William Sweeney, [illegible]; J. E. Bennett, 35; W. W. Chapman, Jr., 38; Dan [illegible], 42. The cost of the improvement is $924 80. [illegible] contract for the extension of the sewer in Marshall street, from present terminus to the east line of Seventh street, was let to John Gibson for $1748 [illegible], and for the extension of the E street sewer from the [illegible] to the west line of Seventeenth street, to S. [illegible] for $2269 40. No other bids were received.

BORROWED A WATERMELON.—John Macdonald, the [illegible] of a noted bunko artist, was on trial in the police court yesterday, charged with stealing a watermelon from the grocery on the corner of First and [illegible] streets. The boy swore positively that he did [illegible] steal the melon, while another lad as positively [illegible] he saw him steal it. The owner of the store [illegible] no particular grudge against boys, but says he [illegible] been losing melons right along and was compelled to take some action. Judge Moreland reserved [illegible] decision till to-day.

ARRESTED FOR ADULTERY.—John Burns, formerly [illegible] barkeeper in this city, and latterly steward on one [illegible] the Puget sound steamers, was arrested yesterday [illegible] complaint of his wife, charging him with adultery. He was taken before Justice Greene, and in [illegible] default of $2000 bonds was committed to jail. Burns [illegible] married only a short time since in this city and [illegible] regarded as a pretty decent man. Of late he has [illegible] been drinking heavily. The name of the woman in [illegible] question is not known to the officers.

CONFIDENT OF ARMSTRONG'S ELECTION.—Mr. M. C. [illegible] of Walla Walla, who was chairman of the [illegible] territorial republican convention at Seattle, [illegible] in the city on pleasure and business. He gives it [illegible] as his opinion that Mr. Armstrong, the nominee for [illegible] congressional delegate, will get the undivided vote [illegible] of the party in Washington territory, and a good [illegible] many democrats at his home, and that his majority [illegible] will be at least 4000.

DIVORCE GRANTED.—Ella S. Anderson yesterday [illegible] obtained a decree of divorce from her husband, [illegible] James A. Anderson. Evidence taken in the case [illegible] showed that the plaintiff was married to the defendant on September 15, 1878; that he committed [illegible] adultery at Olympia, W. T., at a specified time, and [illegible] at other times in Oakland and San Francisco. Besides the decree in her favor, Mrs. Anderson obtained the custody of her son, Albert E., aged 5 years.

PLAYED EVEN.—Since noon yesterday stock in the [illegible] Portland Tug-Boat company has been decidedly [illegible] firm, and may be quoted above par. This is owing [illegible] to the decision of Judge Deady in the Queen of the [illegible] Pacific salvage suit, in which $14,000 is awarded to [illegible] the tug Pioneer and crew. In the first year of its [illegible] existence the company went behind about $8000, [illegible] which stockholders had to make good. The amount [illegible] awarded yesterday will make up this loss and leave [illegible] a small dividend besides.

LIBEL CASE DISMISSED.—E. G. Jones, editor of the [illegible] Evening Chronicle, charged with criminal libel, was [illegible] yesterday released from his bonds by Police Judge [illegible] Moreland and the case dismissed. In his decision [illegible] Judge Moreland reviewed at some length the authorities bearing upon the subject, and while he inclined to the opinion that the plaintiff might find a [illegible] remedy in a civil action the defendant was not liable [illegible] in a criminal charge.

CANOE CLUB.—The newly-organized Oneonta Canoe club has elected the following officers: Commodore, T. B. Merry; vice commodore, Will. H. Walker; secretary and treasurer, James P. Moffett; first captain, Gerald Robertson; second captain, H. [illegible] Bradley; executive committee, Paul Moore and [illegible] Donald Munro. It is the intention of the club to [illegible] place five elegant canoes on exhibition in the Mechanics' fair.

OVERLAND PASSENGERS.—Passed Heron yesterday [illegible] arrive in Portland to-day: Nelson Bennett and [illegible] family, Hettie Martin, T. Glenn, E. Sabin, John [illegible] Tregloan, T. P. Mayham, R. P. Dodd, J. W. Berkeley and son, R. L. Otis, W. W. Snead and wife, W. [illegible] Cumberland, John Evans, R. Stevens and wife, [illegible] E. J. Pruner, Mrs. M. P. Roldnson, Edwin Clark, [illegible] Simon Strout, E. B. Webster and A. H. Howell.

SNAKE RIVER NAVIGATION RESUMED.—The O. R. & N. Co. having secured full crews at the reduced rates [illegible] of wages, is now running boats between Riparia and [illegible] Lewiston, as heretofore, the regular passenger boat [illegible] leaving Riparia on Sunday and Wednesday at 4 P. M., after the arrival of the train which leaves Portland on the preceding days. Freight is now received [illegible] for all landings between Riparia and Lewiston.

[illegible]—William [illegible] [illegible] this week through his attorneys, Gearin & Silbert, [illegible] against A. T. Weller & Co. in the sum of $5000, and [illegible] against the A. P. Hotaling Co. in the sum of $10,000 [illegible] for alleged damages sustained by these firms placing [illegible] attachments on the hotel. Papers will probably be [illegible] filed to-day.

MAIL INSPECTION.—W. B. Thompson of Washington, superintendent of the railway mail service, and [illegible] James L. Wilder, superintendent of the Pacific division of the service, are in the city and have apartments at the Esmond. They will make an inspection of all the lines in Oregon and Washington before [illegible] their return.

PERSONAL.

Drs. S. E. Joseph and George H. Chance of this city and I. W. Case of Astoria have started for Minneapolis to attend the sovereign grand lodge of Odd Fellows which meets on the 15th inst.

THE SALVAGE SUIT.

Judge Deady Awards $64,000 to Captain Flavel and Other Salvors of the Queen of the Pacific.

Yesterday Judge M. P. Deady rendered a decision in the U. S. district court in the Queen of the Pacific salvage case. It is of considerable length and will be published in full in a few days. Of course, the principal point in the decision is the amount awarded as salvage and its distribution. Following is the portion of the decision on that point:

After careful consideration of the whole matter, I have concluded to award the salvors the sum of $64,000, or a little less than [illegible] per centum of the value of the property saved, to be distributed as follows: For [illegible] on the Brenham, Columbia and Astoria, including a new hawser to each, the sums of $[illegible], $[illegible] respectively; and to the Pioneer on the same account $[illegible]; to the tug Pioneer and its crew $14,000; and [illegible] Brenham, Columbia and Astoria and their crews $[illegible]; to the tug Cathy and its crew $[illegible]; the tug Miles and its crew $[illegible]; and the crew and its crew $[illegible]. From the sums awarded to the several tugs and their crews, except the Miles, there must first be paid to each of the persons composing said crews on the 13th and 14th of September a sum equal to the following multiple of the monthly wages he was receiving or was entitled to receive for ordinary service in a similar capacity to each master, or person acting as such, eight times a month's pay; to each pilot and engineer or person acting as such, six times a month's pay; to each mate, or person acting as such, four times a month's pay; and to each seaman or other person of said crews, two times a month's pay.

From the sums awarded to the Miles and the crew and their crews there must be first paid to the persons comprising the latter, as follows: To the master and pilot of the Miles $70, to the engineer $[illegible], to the mate $30, and to the fireman, three deck hands and the cook $20 a piece; to the fireman of the crew $60, and to the three deck hands $40 each.

The remaining portion of the award, $21,000, is allotted to Captain Flavel and Captain Gray, two-thirds to the former and one-third to the latter.

The conduct of both these men on this occasion was highly meritorious and commendable, and deserves, in my judgment, special recognition in this award. Nor ought the fact to be overlooked, in this connection, that the latter has but one arm and the former is crippled in both hands. And looking at Captain Flavel's relation to this subject generally, as well as in this particular transaction, by the light of what is commonly known in this country, as well as the evidence in this case, it may be justly said substantially in the language of counsel that the enterprise and generosity displayed by him on September 13 was such as would reflect great credit on a much younger and other man than himself.

THE EAST SIDE.

STATUS OF THE CITY CASES.

In the suit of Mrs. Hawthorne against the city, in which she disputes the legality of the improvement of L street, between Fourth and Fifth, the demurrer setting forth the complaint did not contain sufficient facts to constitute a cause of action, was overruled by the court, and an answer to the complaint will be duly filed.

In the suit of Mary Rider, William Dalton, et al., in which plaintiffs dispute the legality of the improvement on L street, between Sixth and Eighth, the motion to strike out that part of the answer relating to the transference of three-foot strips of property abutting on the improvement as being fraudulent was denied, and counsel for plaintiffs obtained leave to file an amended complaint.

In the case of Sara Hemple, in which he disputes the right of the city improving Fourth street in front of his property on the ground that the street was never legally opened, a motion to dissolve the injunction was taken under advisement.

SELECTION OF HOSEMEN.

Henry Meyer, elected foreman of Pioneer Engine Company at its last meeting, has selected the following members to act as hosemen: J. T. Stewart, A. H. McEwan, T. J. Matlock, Fred. Kindorf, W. W. McGuire, Geo. Fessler, Geo. O. Edwards, Frank Huchtel, T. C. Powell and C. O. Blakely. A drill was had Monday evening, and passed off satisfactorily for the first performance by this new organization. One or two changes, however, may have to be made. This is a move in the right direction, and by proficiency gained by regular drill, as intended, one that will tell in case of fire.

SEVERELY INJURED.

Mr. John Fay, upon returning home several nights since, slipped upon the wet steps of his residence, corner of H and Ninth streets, and fell heavily, sustaining severe injuries to his side which have compelled him to keep the house since, and will for many days to come.

NOTES.

The fair-est back building operations half a day yesterday.

Another man has been put on the O. & C. freight train, owing to the increased amount of freight arriving.

Street Commissioner Hartel is making thorough work of ditching the bottom. The water from Sullivan's gulch now has a through course to the river.

C. L. Spore, contractor for the elevated roadways on J street, and T. R. Turnbull, for the grading, graveling, etc., will commence their respective contracts to-day, weather permitting. Mr. Spore will first build the roadway between First and Second, which will be about eighteen inches above the present grade.

The funeral of the late C. L. Sheppard took place yesterday. Appropriate services were held at the Presbyterian church, Rev. D. O. Dhorin[illegible] officiating, after which the remains were conveyed to Lone Fir, attended by a delegation of Odd Fellows from Orient lodge, who conducted the services at the grave.

BRIEF MENTION.

Lawrence Barrett will not open at the New Market until Thursday of next week.

The Traveler will hereafter leave Morrison street for La Camas at 2 P. M., instead of 2 30.

The trial of Mordison, Duffy and Stapleton, charged with arson, has been continued until Thursday.

Ah Keong was arrested yesterday for threatening to kill King Sing, and went to jail in default of $500 bonds.

Scotty Clark, who was indicted for assault with intent to kill, was arraigned in the state circuit court yesterday and pleaded not guilty.

The annual meeting of the Ladies' Aid society of the First Congregational church will be held in the Sunday school room this afternoon.

The many friends of Miss Josie O'Hara, who arrived in Portland about four weeks ago on a visit to her uncle, will be pained to learn of her death yesterday.

The Ladies' Social Union of Taylor street M. E. Church will hold the first meeting of the new conference year this afternoon at 2 o'clock in the church parlors.

A. Struckman, clerk in a shoe store, and John Walters were up in Justice Greene's court yesterday, each having made complaint against the other for assault and battery. They were fined $5 apiece.

The annual meeting for the election of officers of the ladies' social union of the Taylor street M. E. church will be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock in the church parlors. A full attendance is desired.

Kalish, the fish dealer, says he was not thrown out of a buggy the other day at the corner of Oak and Second streets, nor at any other corner. He thinks some one has been masquerading under his name.

E. S. Worsley of Astoria will act in conjunction with Messrs. Abell and Jordan on the special committee having charge of the hose contest at Mechanics' fair. Teams from Astoria, Salem and Albany will compete.

George Wright Post moonlight excursion to Oregon City is indefinitely postponed on account of bad weather. Holders of tickets can have their money refunded by applying to the person from whom tickets were purchased.

All members of the W. C. T. U. are requested to be present at the meeting this afternoon at 2:30 in their hall, on Fifth street, near Alder, to hear the report of the standing of the members, which will be given before the completion of reports for annual meeting.

THE TERRITORIAL CONVENTION.

WAITSBURG, Sept. 8.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

If not too much trouble, please let me know the result of the first ballot for delegate at the Seattle convention.

AMUSEMENTS.

THE TIVOLI.—Last night an opera season under the new management was begun at the Tivoli to a packed house. "Girofle-Girofla" was the opera and it was given in good style. Miss King as the twin sisters and Mr. Stevens as Mourzouk divided the applause of the evening. The opera will run until further notice.

L'Entente Cordiale.

In another paper than his own, though in his usual style of argument, the editor of the Mercury replies to my charges against him as a public officer with personal abuse. Admitting that in my old age I am guilty of the insane imbecility of attempting to rob a highwayman, does that answer the pointed question propounded by me and addressed to him in his official capacity as city surveyor in my "Open Letter?"—the author of which W. S. Chapman must have necessarily known without the information from my employers, if it be true, as stated by him, that I offered to suppress his predecessor, the "Bridge Fraud" article. In conclusion, I may here remark that the term "blackmail," which seems to be uppermost in the choice of expressions ought to be the last used by such an official and editor. Our charges still stand unrefuted and not even assailed.

WM. PICKETT.

A STATEMENT IN REPLY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

One of the weekly periodicals published last Saturday contained what purported to be "an open letter" to the city surveyor of Portland; though I never before have I heard of such a cowardly thing as the concealing of the real name of the writer of an "open letter." The editor of the said weekly admitted that his bridge correspondent is "Old Pickett," a frustrated old person, an object of pity, who, when not in the hospital, ought to be in the poor-house. But as the proprietors pay so much a column for such slanderous effusions, I [illegible] the [illegible] of "Old Pickett," and I am [illegible] to have the county and hatred of all such persons. As for the unsigned "open letter," I pronounce every material statement of operation in it a false and malicious fabrication. I refused to pay to prevent them from publishing their false "Bottom Facts" and I am equally determined not to pay them to publish my answer in their regular paper. [illegible] was an overpaid price of $30 on the [illegible] street bridge. But I think him a man above entering such a grossly false statement.

YELLOWSTONE PARK.

A Talk with a Noted Artist who has Seen and Appreciated the Wondrous Beauties of that Region.

Mr. Thomas Hill, the artist, accompanied by his son Edward and the latter's wife, arrived in this city yesterday direct from Yellowstone Park, where they have been for the past two or three weeks engaged in sketching the marvelous scenery of that region. Mr. Hill was met by a reporter of THE OREGONIAN shortly after his arrival, to whom he gave an entertaining description of the natural beauties of the park and the overland trip to Portland.

"It is a charming region," said the artist, "and some of the prettiest bits of scenery are to be found there that I have ever seen. The coloring is superb, and while there is not that massive grandeur which is found in the Yosemite valley, yet the landscapes present effects of pictures [illegible] which no others have."

"How does the Yellowstone Park compare with the Yosemite valley, from an artist's point of view?" asked the reporter.

"Yellowstone Park will never clash with Yosemite," said Mr. Hill. "The two places are entirely different, and each has its own peculiar attractions [illegible] the other."

"What do you think of the geysers?"

"They are wonderful. We had the very best possible chance to see them, too, for eight or ten of the most famous ones played in succession while we were there, [illegible] them starting up just after our arrival at the [illegible]. I think sometimes they ran [illegible] than I ever had before."

"How was the weather in the park during your stay there?"

"Most delightful. There was not a day that was not pleasant for sightseeing or sketching."

"What are the principal points of interest?"

"The canyon and the geysers. There is not much activity round the lake for an artist, and I must confess I was disappointed with the Mammoth springs. [illegible] property [illegible] more beautiful [illegible] in the park were [illegible] than over an [illegible], over there I have been afraid for my life."

"What is the hotel, of which there is so much talk?"

"The hotel is the most mammoth thing about the park. [illegible] They have half-way sort of accommodations for about 500 people instead of having good accommodations for thirty people, which is about as many guests as they ever have at one time. The whole house is cold, cheerless and dismal, and in every room you can find some guest going around shivering and hunting for some place where he could keep warm."

"How did you enjoy the long railroad ride to Portland?"

"With the Northern Pacific I am delighted. It is a truly a pleasant trip. Then, too, the scenery along the Columbia offers me as much if not more pleasure than that of the Yellowstone canyon. The scenery is also much finer from the railroad, I think, than it is from the river. When I was here six or seven years ago, as the guest of Captain Ainsworth, I traveled up and down the river a great deal, for I enjoyed the scenery. I think a great deal more of it now, and the view from the railroad at various points gives such beautiful foregrounds."

"Do you remain long in Portland?"

"Only a few days. I have received some commissions this year for pictures of the Yellowstone scenery, so that my trip was actually a necessity. But I must get back to my studio in the Yosemite, where much work awaits me. I shall stay there another month yet."

Mr. Hill is a guest, while he remains in Portland, of Mr. A. Smith, No. 200 Twelfth street, who is the father of Mrs. Edward Hill.

THE CORVALLIS AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE.

Following is the report of the board of education of the Columbia conference Methodist Episcopal church (South), held at Dayton, W. T., September [illegible], 1884, and unanimously adopted by that body:

To the Bishop and Members of the Columbia Conference: We, your board of education, to whom was referred the report of the president of the board of regents of the Corvallis agricultural college, recommend the following for your action:

In 1868 the legislature of Oregon temporarily located the agricultural college in connection with the Corvallis college. In 1870 a bill was passed making the location permanent, on the condition that the regents accept the trust, agreeing to carry out the law of congress governing agricultural colleges.

And in 1872 the college was fully organized, the legislature adopting a course of study and rules and regulations for the government of the college.

We find on investigation that the regents have faithfully carried out the compact, as far as it was possible with the means at their disposal, and the endowment from the sale of agricultural college lands is now reaching such proportions as will enable them to enlarge their curriculum and enter upon a wider field of usefulness. Within the short period of the existence of this institution, she has graduated sixty-four students, and more than a thousand young men and women have received instruction within her halls, and these have gone out to engage in the great battle of life with honor to themselves and the college as well.

We would further state our conviction that this college has been conducted with efficiency, so far as its faculty is concerned, equal to any college in this great northwest.

Second, The building and apparatus have been largely furnished by the church—about three-fourths of the money for these purposes having come from our missionary board at Nashville, Tenn., or individual members of the church in Oregon and California; the remaining part from the citizens of the state.

The state, according to the original agreement, has not paid a dollar for these purposes, and, furthermore, the building and apparatus are clear of the debt [illegible].

Third, In order to furnish a home for all the professors and students and meet the growing demands of the state, we find it to be imperatively necessary that a new building be erected, to cost say $25,000, as was recommended by the board of regents at the last session. Longer delay in this matter will imperil the very existence of the college.

Moreover, the church is unable to erect such a building without the hearty cooperation of the citizens of Benton county. We endorse the action of the board of regents in tendering the agricultural college farm to the state, and we hereby recommend the names of the following committee to see that the above instructions be carried out at the coming session of the legislature: Hon. R. S. Strahan, J. R. N. Bell and E. B. McElroy. Therefore be it

Resolved (1), That the board of regents of Corvallis Agricultural College be and are hereby urged to raise $25,000 in money or bona fide subscriptions for the erection of a college building on said farm on or before the next ensuing legislature.

Resolved (2), That in the event this amount cannot be raised the board of regents is hereby directed to ask the state legislature at its next session to dissolve the compact now existing between the board of regents of Corvallis agricultural college and the state of Oregon, to take effect at the close of the present scholastic year, June 1885.

Resolved (3), That this conference instruct the board of trustees of Corvallis college to file supplementary articles of incorporation instituting a joint board of regents, fixing the number of the board at thirteen, six to be appointed by the governor of the state and seven by the Columbia conference; the new joint board to meet and organize as soon as practicable after the appointments on the part of the state are made.

We name the following to constitute the new board on the part of the conference: Hon. B. F. Burch, J. R. N. Bell, James A. Cauthorn, D. C. McFarland, T. B. White, A. Cauthorn.

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

For the ensuing year, or until the new joint board is organized:

FOREST GROVE NOTES.

FOREST GROVE, Sept. 8.

The public school reopened last Monday with a good attendance, with Prof. N. Davis as principal.

Dr. Bowlby's new residence is fast approaching completion. Its unique style of architecture gives it a most pleasing outward appearance, and when finished it is said it will be a model of taste and convenience within.

Pacific university opens with a good attendance. The names of eighty [illegible] already been enrolled, quite a number of new students [illegible] here, and more will enter at the middle of the term. It is now conceded that the attendance will be much greater than last year.

Much credit is due to the [illegible] of this county [illegible] the threshing [illegible] sold every farmer [illegible] his grain just as soon [illegible] stock, [illegible] in [illegible]

Rev. D. L. [illegible] returned [illegible] above [illegible] recalled [illegible] the [illegible] Sabbath [illegible] and [illegible] of the [illegible] Under his management he predicted a very successful year for the academy. His sermon last Sunday called out an unusually large audience. The discourse was highly instructive and entertaining, but was counted by all too short, though it occupied the usual thirty minutes. As he is a minister of the M. E. church, the society here feel greatly encouraged at the prospect of such valuable aid in Christian work.

The down train on Monday afternoon brought the Rev. W. D. Nichols, the new minister for the M. E. church at this place. He was met at the depot and conducted to the parsonage, where were found a dozen or more ladies and gentlemen, who seemed to have taken possession of the house and premises in general. After a hearty handshaking all round, the dining room door was thrown open, revealing a table spread with all the market affords, including delicacies of almost every sort. The reception to the pastor a surprise, was a very enjoyable affair and will be long and pleasantly remembered by both him and his flock. It was expected that Mr. Nichols would be accompanied by his wife, but circumstances prevented her coming yesterday. She leaves Corvallis this morning and will join her husband here this afternoon. Rev. M. R. Harkness, minister in charge of the Cornelius circuit, came in company with Rev. Nichols and was present at the reception. He is a rising young man and will occasionally preach for the church here.

ITEMS FROM THE DALLES.

THE DALLES, Sept. 9.

The weather during the past week has been cold and rainy, and for this or some other reason there is an unusual amount of sickness in town, especially among children.

The circuit court has been in session one week, and has disposed of nearly half the cases on the docket. On Monday morning Charles Hawkins, indicted for murder, pleaded not guilty, and his case was set down for trial for Wednesday.

J. C. Nelts, of the Central market, made an assignment on Friday to one of his principal creditors, J. H. Jackson. His liabilities amount to about $2000, of which about half is secured by chattel mortgage.

Bishop Fowler, of the Methodist conference, delivered a very able discourse in the Methodist church Sunday morning. At the close of the services the ordination of deacons took place. The pulpits of the Baptist and Congregational churches were occupied by members of the conference in the evening. At the Congregational church Rev. [illegible] Driver spoke upon the authority of the bible in reply to Colonel Ingersoll's attacks upon it.

In pursuance of a call signed by [illegible], voters, independent of former party affiliations, a meeting was held in the circuit court house Monday evening for the purpose of organizing a Blaine and Logan club [illegible]. The meeting was called to order by Hon. [illegible] Mays, chairman of the county republican [illegible] [illegible]

[illegible]

WHEREAS, The principles of republicanism are the principles on which the sires of the revolution sought to build our present national structure, and although perverted by the enemies of republican liberty for over two and a half centuries, have at last reached, through the labor of the republican party of to-day, a practical realization of the great and philanthropic end designed by the framers of this greatest of national structures to the extent that all the inhabitants thereof are made equal before the law and clothed with the proud habiliments of American citizenship without regard to race, color, or previous condition of servitude; therefore,

Resolved, That this club recognizing Blaine and Logan, the nominees of the republican party for president and vice-president, as the exponents of the above principles, we will give them our most unswerving support at the coming presidential election to be held in November next.

Resolved, That this club shall be known during this campaign as the Blaine and Logan colored club of the city of Portland.

On motion the club adjourned to meet on Friday evening next at 8 o'clock.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST.

Washington Territory.

Yakima county has $1,[illegible] worth of taxable property, and the tax this year is about 17 mills to the dollar.

The black woodpecker is destroying the apple crop at the mouth of the Natchez. The ranchers and northern spy are great favorites with them.

The grading along the line of the railroad above Prosser is being prosecuted for some eight miles, from fourteen to twenty men working in a place. The trains will soon have to be laid, or else the light soil of that locality will level down the fills.

An exchange says: A good many fields of wheat in the hills north and west of Walla Walla have not been cut.

Kittitas Localizer: General satisfaction is expressed at the announcement that work will commence on the Cascade division to western Washington at once. The twenty five mile contract now let will open up a fine farming country on the White river, tributary to Tacoma.

Chicago Inter Ocean: The St. Louis bourbon organ enlarges upon "the difference between Logan and Hendricks." This is hardly necessary; everybody has noticed the especially along about the time Logan headed the Union forces in the field and Hendricks headed the "Knights of the Golden Circle" and other traitors at home.

Mrs. Allen has returned from New York with a full stock of fall and winter millinery.

The Truth About La Camas

Is, that it is the only place in the Northwest unaffected by the present dull times.

Its magnificent water power and its fine location, backed by its large capital, must make it always, as it is now, the liveliest town in the Northwest.

Its people are principally town men from the East, who have brought large capital and abundant enterprise with them.

It is the best place in all this country for new comers to make a start in business or to get work.

It is not a real estate speculation, and has no real estate boomers.

It costs only $1 for the round trip and a few hours' time to go and see it.

THE GREAT
IXL
[illegible]
TO THE FRONT!
We have to offer you this week some good, solid, honest bargains, never before heard of in the history of Portland.
WE ARE OVERSTOCKED!
WE MUST HAVE ROOM!
WE MUST HAVE CASH!
We have heard of a clothing house throwing coats, overcoats and even whole suits of Clothing from the roof to a mob in the street.
We have heard of bones being broken in the scramble—of the clothing thrown from the roof being torn into shreds. Nothing of the sort with us.
This week we revolutionize the price of Pants—
All-Wool Pants,
$2 50, 3, 3 50, 4, 4 50, 5
This week we will revolutionize the price of Suits—
Business Suits,
$7 50, 8 50, 9 50, 10 50, 11 50, 12 50.
Our Best Grade of Suits,
$13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20.
This is the week before school commences. So every customer who buys a Boy's Suit at our house this week we will give a written order on a large book house for one dollar's worth of School Books.
This is no catchpenny scheme, but a good, solid, honest proposition, and is only one of the Great I. X. L.'s many ways of doing good during these hard times.
Mothers, look at the prices this week of
BOYS' SUITS:
Knee-Pant Suits from 4 to 10,
$3, 4, 5, 6, 7.
Coat, Pants and Vest Suits,
$4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9.
We manufacture every dollar's worth of Boys' Clothing we sell, and our prices are $6 50 less than any other house in Portland.
HATS.
Talk is cheap, but it takes money to buy Hats. Right here we will put a flea in your ear by telling you that we can and will sell you
Hats 50 per cent. Cheaper than any other house in Portland.
All goods marked in plain figures, from which there is no deviation.

LIFE IN BRITISH INDIA.

Points from an Address to the Geographical Society by John F. Swift.

SUTTEES AND CREMATIONS.

Calcutta, the City of Palaces—Scenes on the Ganges and Hoogly at Night—The Many Religious Castes of India.

San Francisco Bulletin, August 24.

John F. Swift last evening addressed the Geographical Society of the Pacific and invited guests, in Druid's hall, concerning his recent journey through India. Every seat in the hall was occupied. Prof. Davidson presided. After the election of D. H. Talbot to life membership of the society, Mr. Swift began a very pleasant discourse.

Mr. Swift said that since he last had the pleasure of addressing the society he had traveled four months in British India. It might be that he could not tell much that would be new to the audience, for one could not, in four months, see much of which they had not previously heard. Referring to charts which hung in front of the audience, he said that he would take occasion to refresh their knowledge of India. In latitude it extends from about two degrees south of Panama to Santa Barbara, or, to be more exact, to San Luis Obispo. India is very nearly under us, not directly but nearly so. Calcutta is nearly under Utah or Nevada. The population is about 266,000,000. The territory would make about thirty states the size of Ohio or New York, speaking approximately. These figures are not pretended to be exact. They are correct in a general way.

RELIGIONS OF INDIA.

In the religions the Christian religion is little represented in India. The Christians there are numerically insignificant. The Brahmins have been estimated as high as 250,000,000. Estimates have numbered the Mohammedans between 20,000,000 and 40,000,000. Alluding to the numerous followers of Brahma, Vishnu and Siva, Mr. Swift spoke also of the Jains, whose religion is a cross or combination of the Brahministic cult with that of the Buddhists. He spoke also of the Sikhs, whose religion is a mixture of Hindooism and Islamism. There are next to no Buddhists in India. Some say that there are none. One book, evidently wishing to be exact, says that there is one.

"I left here October 11th on the Coptic," said Mr. Swift, "especially bound for India, and I made as little halt as possible. I went to Calcutta about as quick as a letter would have gone, in about forty days.

THE OPIUM LINE.

"From Hong Kong I took a steamer for Calcutta of the line known as the Opium line. These steamers go once a month to carry opium. I was at once in India when on board ship, so far as my surroundings were concerned. There is hardly any nationality to be named which was not there represented. There were on board Malays, Madrases, Cinghalese, Sikhs, Egyptians, who had fled from the scene of the Egyptian war; people from Constantinople, from Jerusalem, from America—from everywhere and of every conceivable color."

A ROYAL MENAGERIE.

On the opium steamer Mr. Swift met an English gentleman from whom he learned what he could about what was likely to happen to him in India. Passing up the bay of Bengal it appeared that the great rivers Brahmapootra and Ganges are filling up the bay with debris. There were lightships and buoys all around, several miles out. The steamer started up the Hoogly river in the morning. The scenery is singularly oriental. There are palms sugar plantations, native villages, native cultivators, with white cloths around their loins and with black legs and arms glistening. The natives were plowing the land with the aid of sacred bulls. About noon the steamer reached Calcutta. The king of Oude's palace is the most striking object on the right bank of the river. This king was a potentate in 1857, the year of the mutiny. Since 1857 this king has been kept a prisoner in his palace under salary. He amuses himself with a great menagerie which he has collected, embracing lions, tigers and many kinds of snakes. The most remarkable features of the collection are the doves. They fly in clouds of 10,000 and more. There must be 50,000 of these birds. They are trained to fly in circles and to perform other evolutions, and men are employed in training them. Coming into the harbor Mr. Swift saw the most perfect display of shipping that had ever met his eyes.

FAMILY PARTY IN COLORS.

The Hoogly river is very dangerous on account of its many quicksands. Vessels which have struck these have been known to disappear in a few minutes. Mr. Swift had heard the time placed as low as two minutes in one instance. Once ashore the lecturer took a "garry" or native wagon. A native son drove it, the father was on top, the grandfather on the steps and great-grandfather otherwise bestowed about the vehicle. There were also representatives of the descending native line, running down as low as great-grandchildren. With this degree of state the vehicle was started for the Great Eastern hotel. This was on November 26th. At Hong Kong, Mr. Swift had read of the fair which was to occur at Calcutta. He had seen in the Hong Kong newspapers that the prices would be put up at the Great Eastern hotel from six rupees to sixteen rupees per day, but it appeared to be a case of predestination that he should go to that hotel for he did not know where else to go.

WAYS OF KEEPING A HOTEL.

There was a gentlemanly man at the desk in the Great Eastern hotel. Being asked, he said that the price for accommodation in his hotel would be six rupees per day until December 1. After that date named, the price would be sixteen rupees for a room. "But," said the Oriental hotel clerk, "I don't see where the concourse of people is which we expected to attend the fair. The crowd seems rather to fall off than to increase." The perception of this commercial fact led the clerk to say, after a day or two, "as the crowd does not seem to come, you can stay at the same rate you are now paying. But I don't know why people don't come, for we expected hundreds of thousands of people to see the fair."

"We don't do business in your way in America," said Mr. Swift.

"No?" inquired the clerk eagerly, "how do you do it?"

"Well, when there is going to be such an event a committee of citizens is elected, and they prepare to send out word concerning the extra attractions of the place. Then the hotel men get together and agree not to charge guests more than a certain price per day. Then competition comes in and the price goes down lower and lower, until people think that they are going to stop with us free and that each will have a chromo to send home to the babies."

"Well," asked the clerk, evidently much interested, "what do you do then?"

"When we have once got the people we charge them as nearly $40 per minute as they will stand."

"BOLTING" IN INDIA.

"One day," continued the speaker, "a crowd of men came running toward the hotel and on inquiry I learned that they wanted to be employed as body servants. I had been told that every one was expected to have a body servant. At the same time a friend told me that I must beware or the body servant would bolt with my baggage and that I would not thereafter find either servant or baggage. I looked the men all over carefully and picked out one I thought I would have. I had decided on what I would do. I resolved to say that I would make a long stay in Calcutta and that then I would bolt. I told the man that I thought I would stay several years in the country; in fact that I expected to settle there permanently.

Every white man must have a body servant. One stands behind each white man at dinner. They are very silent servants because they are all barefooted.

PALACES IN CALCUTTA.

Calcutta is said to be the city of palaces. The city has a population of 800,000. The palaces have great corridors and spacious roofs, but very few doors, and they appear to be really great stone tents, in which the people encamp. People go into them as a shelter against the heat. Around Fort William, which stands in an open space, preserved as a strategic point, but also affording a breathing space for the city, the people gather. From here the resemblance to a city of palaces afforded by the view is striking. There are not more than 20,000 English in the city, but they occupy more space than the 780,000 other inhabitants. The natives live huddled together in narrow streets. The natives seem nearly related to us. The relationship, barring perhaps color, would be a compliment to us. In grace and bearing the lecturer had seen nothing to compare with the Bengals. A flowing robe adds to their dignity. One could almost imagine that a Marc Antony had stepped out before him on seeing some of the men. The women are small slender and handsome. They are cheaply clad. The dress of a woman of the middle or lower class does not cost over $2, and perhaps not one-fourth of that sum.

A NATIVE JEHU.

One day the lecturer and a friend wished to drive out, and sent for a carriage. When the turnout appeared a man sat on the box as driver with no clothes on. At once a servant, Abdullah, was sent out to remonstrate with the driver. Word was returned through Abdullah that the man had no prejudice against clothes if he could get any. He would wear clothes if the gentlemen wished it and would provide them. Only he could not get any. But neither gentleman wanted to pay for clothing the driver. So the drive was taken without further parley with this driver. Mr. Swift afterward learned, with chagrin, that he could have clad the driver in gorgeously colored garments for twenty-five cents. There are dye shops all along the streets, into which the native can step and have his faded clothing touched up for a few cents. The effect produced by the garments in the streets is that of a brilliant poppy bed.

NATIVES BATHING IN THE HOOGLY.

In the waters of the Hoogly river thousands of natives may be seen bathing at once. There are many things about the homes of the natives that shock the spectator, but the natives are cleanly about their persons. Hindoo coolies may be seen brushing their teeth half an hour at a time. And of 266,000,000 natives there is hardly one whose teeth are not as perfect as those which any lady may wish to have. All day bathing in the Hoogly goes on. All go in washing together, and all attend to their own affairs. They wash their persons and clothing alike. As they walk up the bank they find a great concourse of barbers and Brahmin priests, the first mentioned class being ready to shave them and the latter to perform religious rites. The priest sits under a canopy, whereunder are also images of native gods, and pieces of sandal wood and other wood. When the Hindoo leaves the priest he has some mark on his face to show that he has attended religion. The never ceasing throng of bathers is one of the most curious sights to be witnessed in an Indian city.

A WOMAN'S TOILET.

A native woman's dress consists of the "serree." This is five yards of cloth without a stitch in it. If the woman is married there is a red strip, about half an inch wide, around the edge of the "serree." The cloth is first wound around the waist and falls to the ankles. Then it is thrown up over the shoulder, and the same garment makes a head-dress. The men are dressed on as simple a plan.

STREET SCENES.

In the streets may be seen fakirs who devote themselves to religion. They take off all their clothes and roll themselves in ashes. Then they move along the streets sedately, asking nothing, but the people give them money. Some stand immovable on a corner, and they will not move a hand to brush off a fly. There are other fakirs who seemed to have vowed to measure off with their bodies a thousand or fifteen hundred miles. This work they accomplish by lying down and rising to their feet alternately. It is a tedious performance.

The jugglers, of whom so much has been said, are marvelously dexterous. This is because they are of a caste, and the trade descends from father to son. The children begin to practice when very young, when their muscles are supple.

Temples are sacred to monkeys, to cows and to certain birds. At one temple the priests, who were not officiating, asked Mr. Swift to come around when they were. Other priests were at this time performing religious rites. It seemed strange to hear these half-dressed Hindoos speaking English like Gladstone.

WITNESSING CREMATION.

A cremation occurred in the presence of the speaker. The fire was about four feet long. On this the body was placed. A Brahmin walked around the pyre chanting. Flowers were thrown on the pile, which was also sprinkled with water from the Ganges. The nearest relative applied the torch. The ceremonies after the burning were not seen by the speaker.

Cremations are performed in an inclosure walled off from the street in Calcutta, and shipping is all around. Bodies are placed on low piles of fuel. Mr. Swift saw at one time three bodies on settles, waiting to be burned, and five or six fires were burning about him in different stages of combustion. A mourner appealed to him to be protected from imposition. The legal charge for cremation was $1.35. He had been charged $1.40.

RELIGION, SACRIFICES AND CASTE.

In the families of gods common to the religion of Greeks, Romans and Hindoos, there is a striking resemblance. It appears to be an old belief continued. The sacrifice of goats and buffaloes in India is reminiscent of Rome and Greece. But the place of sacrifice is not a pleasing locality. The Hindoos will eat the flesh of sacrificed goats and buffaloes. The priests sell it. When the demand is more than the supply it is probable that the priests get some one to offer sacrifice.

Caste prevents the people of India from uniting against the English. They can never march in an army until they can eat from the same dish and sleep under the same tent. That may some time occur, but it will be when the natives love the English.

Mr. Swift dwelt on the marriage ceremonies of children, saying that girls are married at not over nine years of age and boys at not over eleven or twelve years. A girl may be a widow at eight. She can never marry again. It is doubtful if she in her forlorn state has been benefited much by the abolition of the suttee, although for the abolition the British government is entitled to credit.

THE WHEAT CROP.

Mr. Swift said that it was improbable that tea could ever be raised in El Dorado county in this state or in North Carolina at a profit, until American wages came down to the Indian standard or Indian wages reach ours or the two meet. Cheap labor and the wonderful fertility of the Indian soil apply to the wheat problem. Two crops will grow in a year. Famines occur in such a country only because there is not enough to eat. Opium is now raised in India under the command of the British government. If that government should issue the command to raise wheat, England is at once independent of the American crop. The thing is done, Mr. Swift thought that is a few years England's wheat supply might all come from India.

NASBY.

Mr. Nasby Answers Numerous Correspondents.

CONFEDRIT X ROADS,
(Wich is in the State uv Kentucky),
August 21, 1884.

I hev reseeved sum thoussends uv letters from my Dimocratic friends from all parts uv the kentry, wich, ez I cannot find time, or postage stamps, to answer persnelly, I do thro the mejum uv the publik press.

I wood sejest that Dimocrats wich git ther friends to write me queries on politikle matters, shood enclose a stamp or two to enshure an early reply. Bascom don't use stamps, but he kin sell em to Pollock and Bigler, and the iron mill over on the Run, and he sez he will take em uv me for drinks, for to go to the trubble uv turnin uv em into money is better than to charge up wat I consoom. Hereafter no letter will be answered wich does not contane at least one five cent stamp. I kin yootilize em, ez Bascom hez agreed to make one five center the price uv one sustaner, I layin down the stamp jist afore he sets out the bottle, to prevent mistakes. Mr. Bascom hez a strong desire to sell his likker but he lacks faith in hooman nacher. He wants cash afore he sets the bottle out, wich is generally inconvenient, ez the man wich hez the liveliest thirst is the identikle feller wat never hez the cash. Thirst and cash seldom goes together. Thirst is no respecter uv persons. It comes alike to him that kin pay for asswagers and him wich cannot. Credit is the main stay uv indivijjles ez well ez uv states. But Bascom is not a politikle economist and don't understand the principle uv things.

But to my answers:

YOUNG DIMOCRAT, Poseyville, Injeany.—Fur Jim Blane to hev his son go about visitin boards of trade, and sich, an gettin his name into the noosepapers, is takin a unfair advantage uv our noble standard barer, ex-Sheriff Cleveland. It is not shivelrous. Grover Cleveland hez a son, it is true, that is, he is presoomed to hev wun, though he sez it isn't certain, persianly, ez wich uv the four its father reely wuz. Anyhow, Sheriff Cleveland's son isn't of that pertikeler kind the father uv wich wood keer to hev goin about the kentry claimin to be his son, owin to the unforchnit circumstance that he wuz born when ex-Sheriff Cleveland wuz a giddy, wild youth uv only forty-two summers and about the same number of very hard winters, and he wuzn't precisely married to his son's mother. Rev. Henry Ward Beecher doesn't mind a little thing like that, and, in the interest of purity, ignores it, but he isn't eggsactly quoteble authority on sich delikit matters. He knows how it is himself, and his word don't count. While ex-Sheriff Cleveland is undoubtedly innocent in this matter, Mariar Halpin is undoubtedly guilty. Apply to this case the same rool that Plymouth church did to Mr. Beecher.

STUMP-SPEAKER, Smithville, Injeany.—From wat I know uv the kentry you live in, I shood advocate tariff reform, with a decided leenin to pertecksihun. I think you hev coal in your vicinity, and that your voters are largely interested in manufakturing. Ef I am kerrect that is wat you want to do. Ef, on the other hand, I am not kerrect, and you are purely agricultural, and your people are not particklerly intelligent, insist that dimocrisy means tariff reform with a decided leenin toward free trade. You know wat your people want. Construe the platform to soot em. The platform wuz made to be construed; ecxstrukted, in fact, so that Henry Watterson and Sam Randall kin both stand on it.

J. L. [illegible], Missoory.—Wat part uv Missoory are you in? Ef you are in a seceshin naberhood insist that Hendrix wuz a out and out secessionist, and reed his speeches durin the war to your awjinces. Ef you are in a Yankee naberhood insist that he wuz merely an upholder uv the constooshnel rites uv the south, but wuz ez loyal ez anybody, only differin with the beest Linkin ez to methods. Whether you reed his speechis doorin the war to your awjinces or not depends entirely on the kind uv people you are talkin to. However, insist upon reform strenuously.

STRICT PURITY, Kokomo, Injeany.—Ex-Sheriff Cleveland hez no past, but Mariar Halpin. His record is a boy uv about eleven yeers uv age, wich his name it is Oscar Folsom Cleveland. Ex-Sheriff Cleveland wuz a thotlis yooth uv forty-two yeers uv age when this happened, it being one uv the pardonable excesses uv a mere boy sowing his wild oats. Pay no attenshun to the ex-sheriff's past. In fact, I ain't shoor but wat it wood be well to assert that he never wuz a dimocrat. In most seckshuns uv the kentry that wood be to his credit, and wood go a grate way toward inspirin confidence in him. I wunst knowd a man wich hed too much respect for his wife to ever stay at home. Let us be ekally magnanimous to ex-Sheriff Cleveland. He is comparatively noo, and there ain't no goose in saddlin our record onto him.

FREEMAN LIBERTY.—Read ex-Sheriff Cleveland's letter uv acceptance, and you will be satisfied. The question of likker don't properly enter into this campane, but the ex-sheriff has put himself on record ez inflexibly in favor uv everything in the way uv free whisky everywhere. Urge this in the whisky shops and beer saloons, but say nothin' about it anywhere else.

FIAT MONEY, Cass, Pa.—The posishen uv the dimocrisy on the money question is the same ez on the tariff. Ef yoo will tell me wat your voters want I will anser definitely. I shood jedge from your letter that you beleeve in fiat money. Ef I am right then I hev to say that the dimocrisy holds that a dollar is anything you choose to call a dollar. Paper makes perhaps the best dollars, becoz printing is now very cheap, and paper still cheaper. Paper, sootable for money, kin now be hed for about 16 cents a pound. All we want is for the government to buy paper and print onto it "this is a dollar" with the cut uv a dog watchin' a safe to inspire confidence, and then pass a law compellin' people to take it for a dollar, and thar you are.

MANUFACTURER, Westerly, R. I.—The dimocrisy hez never hed but one idee ez to money. Money means what the world recognizes ez money, gold and silver. To print "this is a dollar" onto a peece uv paper don't make it a dollar, even though yoo put onto it a cut uv a dog watchin a safe. The printed dog and safe ain't no more a reel dog and safe than the paper dollar is a reel dollar. The dimocrisy is for honest money.

"HONEST COUNT," Ashtabula, Ohio.—The dimocrisy will insist that the colored voter in Mississippy shel hev the same rites at the pole ez his white brethren. Dimocrisy will pertekt the rites uv all, under the constootooshen, without regard to race, color or previous condishun uv servitood. That's wat dimocrisy will do. The safety uv the colored man depends onto the eleckshun uv Cleveland.

SHOTGUN, Danville, Virginy.—Uv course an inferior race should not be permitted to exercise the rites uv freemen. That belongs to the proud Cawcashun. However, while your course uv killin niggers to pervent their takin charge uv you is korect, it would perhaps be polisy to restrane yourselves till the morning uv the eleckshun, so that the report uv your shotguns shood not be heerd north afore the poles wuz closed and the postoffises be sekoored. Be ye ez wise ez serpents, ef yu don't jist take to the dove racket.

INDIGNANT INDEPENDENT REPUBLICAN, Eastville, Mass.—The president hez the appointin uv postmasters, and the refoosle uv the republican party to give you the offis in your village wuz, I make no doubt, an outrage. After Cleveland is elected I will remember your name and address. Uv course you can't support an impure man for president. Put in your best licks for Cleveland.

* * * * *

I hev many more to answer, but will reserve them for futher occasions. My correspondents will not forget to enclose stamps. Silver kin go by mail, but stamps will answer, Bascom, ez I sed, havin agreed to take em uv me across his bar.

PETROLEUM V. NASBY,
(Instructor.)

A Prima Donna from South Africa.

Last Tuesday Mlle. Pauline Bredelli sang with Gilmore at Manhattan Beach, and the celebrated bandmaster said to her the next day, "permit me to congratulate you on your triumph." Mlle. Bredelli, who has recently returned to the United States and is now open for engagements, was born in South Africa, of German and English parents. She studied under Professor Theo. Kullak and Gustave Engel in the Meuen Academie der Tonkunst, at Berlin, Germany, and has sung in Berlin, Dresden, Leipzig, Dantzig, and throughout South Africa with great success.

All persons afflicted with dyspepsia, Diarrhœa, Colic and all kinds of indigestions will find immediate relief and sure cure by using Angostura Bitters. The only genuine is manufactured by Dr. J. G. B. Siegert & Sons.

TRADE AND COMMERCE.

TUESDAY, Sept. 9.

A combination of cool showers is had. These extend the length of the valley, occasioning loss to grain yet uncut or in the shock and doubtless unfavorably affecting the hop yards. Dayton is the only point in the eastern section reporting rain this morning.

A deal was being made in O. R. & N. stock to-day in Wall street, prices declining sharply at the opening of business. For several days nothing was done in the stock, no quotations being sent out.

Overland, receipts include [illegible] bales, [illegible] cs cigarettes, 125 cases tobacco, [illegible] bxs nails, [illegible] cs coal oil, [illegible] bbls [illegible] cs bottled beer.

PRODUCE RECEIPTS—Past 24 hours—[illegible] ctls wheat, [illegible] bbls flour, 87 ctls oats, [illegible] ctls bran, [illegible] sks potatoes, [illegible] hides, [illegible] eggs, [illegible] bxs fruit, [illegible] pkgs butter. Also [illegible] wheat, [illegible] flour, 19,[illegible] lbs wool from the eastern section.

EXPORTS—Per steamer State of California: [illegible] ctls wheat, [illegible] flour, [illegible] ctls oats, 31,535 lbs wool, 7 bls blankets, 4 cs flannels, 7 cs [illegible], 19 bxs green fruit, [illegible] sks feathers, [illegible] bxs [illegible], 5 bls deer skins, [illegible] bls sheep skins, [illegible] bls calf skins, 57 dry 114 green hides, $39,218 treasure.

IMPORTS—Per British bark Alpheta, from London: [illegible] casks cement, 10 crts earthenware, 10 cs champagne, 55 cs gin, 10 cs brandy, [illegible] cs Apollinaris water, 5 cska [illegible], [illegible] cska [illegible] cs rum, 10 cs orange bitters, 250 bxs tin plate, 5 cska [illegible] merchandise.

FREIGHTS—Owners continue to hold out for extreme rates and business is at a complete standstill. The iron bark Alpheta, just arrived, is added to the disengaged list.

WHEAT—Chicago October option closed off to 78¾ cents, a decline of nearly 2 cents over yesterday. That market promises to show interesting dealings in the next few days. The English market is slow and probably easier. A state holiday in California lessens trade in the San Francisco market. With us there is the same inactive condition to report, shippers doing next to nothing, and only enough grain coming in to cover the small advances made in cash or grain sacks.

The reduction of $1 in grain freights from the eastern section shows a liberal spirit on the part of the O. R. & N. Co., when it is known that they were sure to handle the entire crop sooner or later. The limit to October 15 made the a summer excursion ticket, and is named because of the probability of the road being leased. It is not expected that the old rate will ever be reestablished. The reduction is a direct benefit to the farmer in its entirety. It is expected to stimulate the movement, and may to some extent, as it means $1 per cental more to the seller and little or nothing has passed out of first hands.

OATS—A shipment of [illegible] ctls to San Francisco is noted. The market is poorly supplied at present.

POTATOES—Stocks full and values unchanged. Sweets sold at 2 [illegible].

GREEN FRUIT—California stocks well cleaned up by noon at old prices. Citron fruits in light request and liberal stock.

HOPS—Steady at 25c.

CHICKENS—Steady and without change.

Markets by Telegraph.

SAN FRANCISCO MARKETS.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 9.

Weather—clear; calm.

Receipts—Wheat, [illegible] ctls, including [illegible] ctls aboard ship; flour, [illegible] ¼ sacks; oats, [illegible] ctls; potatoes, [illegible] sks; eggs, [illegible] dozen.

Freights—The market is easy with a light demand. Chartered—Br. ship British Merchant, iron, [illegible] tons, to Liverpool, Havre or Antwerp, [illegible]; to Cork, for orders, [illegible]; Am. ship Cyrus Wakefield, [illegible] tons, Liverpool, [illegible].

To-day being admission day, business is generally suspended.

LONDON, Sept. 9.—Silver bullion, London standard, 925 fine, per fine ounce, 50[illegible].

SHIPPING NOTES.

The State of California sailed at 4 A. M. with 475 tons freight.

Dodd & McCabe, stevedores, are to-day placing the first wheat of the season into the British ship Agnes Sutherland for C. Cæsar & Co. The quality is Walla Walla, and it will probably go to the continent. Last year at this time the Russian had sailed with a full cargo, and several vessels were in berth. One month and eight days of the new season has passed. The Sutherland will get away this month, and possibly the [illegible] also. At present there is every indication of a light movement through October.

The Queen of the Pacific libel suit is ended and the salvors get $4,000. Pioneer stock is at a premium in consequence of the award.

The ship Highland Light, hence April 21 with [illegible] ctls wheat by G. Cæsar & Co., has arrived at Antwerp on a passage of 141 days.

The British wooden bark Kate F. Troop, [illegible] days from Rio Janeiro, arrived in to-day. She is under prior charter for wheat to McKenzie & Cavanagh.

The British bark Scottish Chief is reported at Port Blakely to-day from Callao. She was previously reported on the way to Portland.

Twin Foes to Life

Are Indigestion and Constipation. Their primary symptoms are among the most distressing of minor human ailments, and a host of diseases, speedily resultant from them, mutually aggravate each other and assail at once the whole machinery of life. Nausea, Foul Breath, Sour Stomach, Dizziness, Headaches, Bilious Fever, Jaundice, Dyspepsia, Kidney Diseases, Piles, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Dropsy, and various Skin Disorders, are among the symptoms and maladies caused by derangement of of the stomach and bowels.

A Thorough Purgative

medicine is the first necessity for cure. Then the cathartic effect must be maintained, in a mild degree, just sufficient to prevent a recurrence of costiveness, and at the same time the liver, kidneys and stomach must be stimulated and strengthened.

Ayer's Pills

Accomplish this restorative work better than any other medicine. They are searching and thorough, yet mild, in their purgative action. They do not gripe the patient, and do not induce a costive reaction, as is the effect of other cathartics. Withal, they possess special properties, diuretic, hepatic and tonic, of the highest medicinal value and

Absolutely Cure

All diseases proceeding from disorder of the digestive and assimilatory organs. The prompt use of AYER'S PILLS to correct the first indications of costiveness, averts the serious illnesses which neglect of that condition would inevitably induce. All irregularities in the action of the bowels—looseness as well as constipation—are beneficially controlled by AYER'S PILLS, and for the stimulation of digestive organs weakened by long-continued dyspepsia, one or two of AYER'S PILLS daily, after dinner, will do more good than anything else.

Leading Physicians Concede

That AYER'S PILLS are the best of all cathartic medicines, and many practitioners, of the highest standing, customarily prescribe them.

DR. LIEBIG'S INVIGORATOR
DR. LIEBIG'S WONDERFUL German Invigorator.
Men suffering from Disease and weakness brought on by early imprudence or excesses, causing nervous debility, premature decay, lost manhood, etc., having tried in vain every known remedy should immediately procure DR. LIEBIG'S INVIGORATOR No. 2.
THE DOCTOR will agree to forfeit $1000 for a case undertaken, not cured. The reason why so many cannot get cured of weakness and the above diseases is owing to a complication called PROSTATORRHEA, with Hyperesthesia, which requires special treatment.
DR. LIEBIG'S INVIGORATOR NO. 2, under our advice and special treatment, is the only possible cure for PROSTATORRHEA.
DR. LIEBIG & CO. for the past nineteen years have made an exclusive specialty of the treatment of diseases of men.
If pimples appear on the face, if you become listless and despondent, look out for the complication with Seminal Weakness and loss of Vitality known as Prostatorrhea. Hundreds of lives have been lost and thousands have lost all their property and pleasure in life from its effects. DR. LIEBIG'S INVIGORATOR NO. 2 is the only known remedy for the above complication, and a perfect and permanent cure will be guaranteed in all cases undertaken under our special advice and treatment.
